KIDNAPERS FAIL TO RETURN GIRL

Johnson Says NRA Foes Seeking To Scuttle Program

ROOSEVELT POLICIES DEFENDED LABOR SYMPATHIZERS LEAVE FOR CONFERENCE IN VALLEY

Administrator Charges Enemies Endeavoring to Return to Piracy Days
EMERGENCY NOT OVER

Impassioned Plea for United Public Support is Made at Columbus Meet

COLUMBUS, O., May 5.—(UP)—Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson charged last night that enemies of the N. R. A. are trying "to scuttle the whole recovery program, make the Blue Eagle walk the plank, hoist the Jolly Roger on the ship of state and sail back to the good old piracy that brought the crash of 1929."

In an impassioned defense of the N. R. A. before a mass meeting at the State Fair Stadium, the administrator cited great gains which he said the N. R. A. had brought to industry and labor.

He called for continued united public support, warning that otherwise the "wealthy, powerful" enemies of the N. R. A. will split its friends into quarreling groups.

Crisis Still Exists
Quoting speakers at the recent United States Chamber of Commerce meeting in Washington as saying "the President's recovery efforts should cease because the emergency is over," Johnson replied sarcastically:

"These will be welcome tidings to 10,000,000 unemployed—to many millions of distressed farmers—and to the barely concealed despair that stalks everywhere throughout this nation."
The chief dangers to the N. R. A., Johnson said, are:

"The reluctance of benefited groups to assume burdens with benefits, the possibility of loss of necessary solidarity through the aid thus given enemies to use group discontents to destroy in detail what they would not even have dared to attack on a solid front."

"They have begun already with the almost ridiculous slogan: 'Take off the brakes, the brakes mean'! It means 'back to 1929.' It means 'let us alone.'"

"It is being said now that the program is deliberately being weakened by the administration in answer to these attacks. It is not being weakened."

"Nobody can speak for the President, but I can speak for him. What is happening is that the true outline of Franklin Roosevelt's moderate common sense and deliberate plan is being made clear by experience. Don't let that fall on deaf ears."

The N. R. A. is an experiment, Johnson conceded, "but it is an experiment under complete governmental control and absolute flexibility. After half a year of N. R. A. it is certainly too early to talk about returning to a system which has demonstrated its futility for nearly half a century, ending in ruin."

Farmer Protected
The essence of the N. R. A. is that it gives the people a little control over their own affairs, Johnson said. And he held that also was the basis of the "enemy minority's" fight against it.

As for the charge that the N. R. A. is raising too fast the prices of things the farmers buy, he said that except in a few isolated items "no such thing has happened." Agriculture, Johnson insisted, can prosper only as industrial buying power is restored.

Complaints that the N. R. A. oppresses the "little fellow," Johnson said, are largely "alligator" talk. The particular kind of "little fellow" who wants to compete by sweating labor wages."

CALL TO ARMED IN SURRECTION IN CUBA MADE

Influential Opponent of Government Urges New Revolt in Call

(Copyright 1934, by United Press.)
HAVANA, May 5.—(UP)—An open call to armed insurrection against the government was made today by Antonio Guiteras, most influential opposition political figure in the country.

Guiteras, in a bitterly phrased statement made through the United Press—his first since the fall of the Grau San Martin government—said armed revolt was the only means of insuring honest elections.

Patriotic Cubans, he announced, are organizing for a revolution, which they intend to effect even if it means armed intervention by the United States.

"We are being ruled by the United States government now through a weak government," he said. "The prospect is that the American embassy will influence elections to make sure of a government that will be amenable to American interests."

"I am for depression rather than American rule, and for armed intervention if it must come to that."

Guiteras was secretary of interior in the government of Ramon Grau San Martin, which never was recognized by the United States. His call for revolt came as politically conscious students all over the country showed their readiness to face rifle fire of soldiers, if necessary, to demonstrate.

The government, confronted with a sudden revolutionary opposition, decided it must use force rather than diplomacy. The cabinet summed up its decision, after long consideration.

There were student riots at varying intensity yesterday in Havana, Santa Clara and Oriente provinces. Three students were wounded by soldiers' rifle fire.

Soldiers raided the Havana institute building where students were barricaded, and seized large quantities of arms and explosives. Student leaders called a 48-hour general school strike.

Guiteras' statements overshadowed all other developments. The young, energetic Cuban was in fighting mood.

URGES WORK START ON NORTHERN DAM

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 5.—(UP)—Nearly all the unemployed men in northern California counties, outside of the metropolitan bay area, could be given five months work on the Kennett dam project for $10,000,000, Charles W. Detering, Sacramento county executive claimed today.

He estimated 15,000 men could be employed for five months for $10,000,000, and that 15,000 jobs would take care of all the northern counties unemployed.

There has been considerable agitation to start work on the dam, a part of the proposed Central Valley water project, as a relief measure.

PARIS, May 5.—(UP)—It may be just a whim, Michael Farmer said today in announcing that he would not consent to be divorced by Gloria Swanson, motion picture actress, before he talked to her.

Civilians To Fly Airmail Monday Night

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(UP)—The U. S. army will turn over three major air mail routes to civilian fliers Monday night with the prospect that within a short time private concerns will be carrying all the air mail again.

The first routes to be taken over are the Newark-Oakland, Salt Lake City-Seattle and Seattle-San Diego services. United Air Lines will handle the service.

The post office department expects to release several more routes to private carriers during the week under the temporary contracts which were awarded several days ago.

REPUBLICANS ARE TOLD TO CLEAN HOUSE

Senator Borah Demands Party Rid Itself From Present Leaders

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(UP)—A thorough cleansing of the Republican party is all that can save it from extinction, Sen. William E. Borah, Idaho's independent Republican, said today in discussing the political situation.

Although without any special candidate to succeed Everett Sanders as chairman of the Republican national committee, Borah expressed vigorous views as to the course he believed the party should pursue.

He demanded a complete separation from recent leaders.

"The Republican party is pretty close to the brink, and unless it has an organization free from the influences which brought us to our present plight," he said, "it will die as the old Whig party died—of sheer political cowardice."

Borah did not mention names, but it was apparent he was talking of the Republican party leadership during the Hoover administration.

"There is just one hope for the Republican party," he said, "and that is the young Republicans all over the country with a new outlook, a new spirit and cleaner higher political ideals."

"If they can take charge of the party and divorce it from the economic and the financial influences which have dominated it recently, then we can have a Republican party."

The rank and file of the Republican party are still loyal, and there is a majority of Republicans in this country if given the proper leadership."

CHARGES THAT KING ALBERT MURDERED

NOTTINGHAM, England, May 5.—(UP)—Lieut. Col. Graham Seton Hutchison, former army intelligence officer and internationally known author, revived today reports that King Albert of Belgium did not fall from a mountain side to his death but was murdered.

"I know the facts," said Hutchison in a speech to the Writers' club. "The story about his death was the biggest piece of nonsense put over on the world in six months."

BELIEVE ROLPH WILL NOT SEEK OFFICE AGAIN

Third Attack in Year Removes Possibility of His Candidacy

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—(UP)—Political observers believed today that Governor James Rolph Jr.'s third attack of illness within a year definitely ended the possibility he will be a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the August primaries.

Rolph is a patient at St. Francis hospital, occupying the same suite assigned him during previous attacks last fall and this spring. He was said to be close to exhaustion after his collapse Thursday night while working in his office here.

It was reported that Theodore Roche, San Francisco lawyer and close adviser of the governor, will go to the hospital today to confer with Rolph. The conference is said to concern a definite announcement concerning the gubernatorial campaign.

Members of the family, including James Rolph III, his son, were quoted as advising the governor, who was said to be in bed, that our delegation to go too, precluding possible trouble. Our members felt that the fact that today is a Mexican holiday and that most workers would be assembled in Brawley, Mexicali and El Centro made the trip very "advisable" indeed.

"Were we to have accepted Gen. Glassford's advice and postponed the trip until Tuesday or Wednesday, we certainly would not have had a chance to talk to workers—who would have been in the fields—and our findings subsequently would have been subject to attack as the complaints of 'unemployed malcontents.'"

"I am at a loss to account for Gen. Glassford's suggestion, unless he has been influenced by the growers."

"We are going to give the pickers an assurance that others."

PRESIDENT ATTENDS FUNERAL OF WOODIN

NEW YORK, May 5.—(UP)—President and Mrs. Roosevelt and others high in governmental life came here today to pay last tribute to William H. Woodin, the smiling little secretary of the treasury who piloted the nation through its most critical banking period.

Funeral services for Woodin, who died Thursday evening of a throat ailment which had forced him to retire from the cabinet, four months ago, were held this afternoon in Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church.

Only three members of the family attended, Mrs. Woodin and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Minor and Mrs. Wallace W. Roe, of Cincinnati. A son, William Jr., is ill in Tucson, Ariz., and another daughter, Mrs. W. F. Harvey, also is ill.

The body will be taken to Berwick, Pa., Woodin's former home, for burial tomorrow.

REPRESENTATIVES OF AAA ON COAST

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(UP)—The AAA has sent several representatives to Los Angeles to enforce obligations respecting prices to producers and payments to the surplus milk fund under the existing license for that area, it was announced today.

The AAA intends to establish a basis for completion of a new license for Los Angeles to replace the present one, it was explained. Conferences will be held locally with representatives of producers and other agencies on the market. These representatives also will study the existing licenses in San Diego and Oakland.

Glassford's Request Is Disregarded

Members of Civil Liberties Union to Meet Workers in Public Confab

LOS ANGELES, May 5.—(UP)—Disregarding the expressed wish of Gen. Patham A. Glassford, today made it "indisputable" that the labor sympathizers left here today for the Imperial valley, where they expected to confer publicly with holidaying laborers.

Chester D. Williams, member of the executive committee of the Southern California branch of American Civil Liberties union, said the union had found "impracticable" Gen. Glassford's request that the delegation not come today.

"The very circumstance mentioned by Gen. Glassford—the fact that the laborers are enjoying a holiday today—is the one that influenced the delegation," Williams said.

"Gen. Glassford said that the presence of labor organizers in the valley today made it 'indisputable' that our delegation to go too, precluding possible trouble. Our members felt that the fact that today is a Mexican holiday and that most workers would be assembled in Brawley, Mexicali and El Centro made the trip very 'advisable' indeed."

LIQUOR SALES TO MINORS CONDEMNED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 5.—(UP)—The California Congress of Parents and Teachers were recorded today as favoring teachers' tenure, federal aid to public schools, and stricter enforcement of liquor laws relative to sales to minors.

The recommendations were adopted in resolutions passed in the final session of the annual convention held here this week.

The board of directors chose San Diego as the 1935 convention city. Riverside also had extended an invitation. In the balloting on the convention site, San Diego received 49 votes and Riverside 16.

A recount of votes in the election of officers confirmed the choice of Mrs. C. H. Turner, Redondo Beach, as president of the organization for the coming term. Supporters of Mrs. James K. Lytle, Los Angeles, demanded the recount. It revealed that Mrs. Turner defeated her opponent by 31 votes.

MAKES PLEA TO GET WORK FOR H. S. BOYS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 5.—(UP)—Approximately 150,000 California high school and college graduates who never have been employed in this state, Vierling Kersey, superintendent of public instruction, said today as he voiced a plea to find work for the youths.

An immediate step, he suggested, might be taken by encouraging new service activities, such as window or house cleaning groups, lawn cutting and gardening, light catering and dog washing. But the serious problem, he said, should be considered as a long term proposition, with retirement of older people one of the major responsibilities.

SERA RELIEF PROJECT TO BE STARTED IN ORANGE COUNTY ON FIFTEENTH OF THIS MONTH

ASSURING members of the Orange county SERA committee that the new work relief project will be launched in Orange county about May 15, Charles Schottland, district representative of the state administrative office of SERA, discussed the program with members of the committee yesterday afternoon in the courthouse annex.

Municipalities had planned to begin completion of unfinished CWA projects immediately, but Schottland said yesterday that work relief could not be supplied in place of direct relief until R. C. Branton, state administrator, returns from Washington with definite instructions. Branton, he said, will return in two or three days.

One of the important points stressed by Schottland in the conference was that while heretofore the federal government has not put money into a county for relief unless the county has used up available resources such as county tax money and state bond money, Branton is trying to change the policy so that a county will get federal aid if it shows faith by drawing its own money and putting it into the county for relief. This is the condition Orange county has been in, he said.

Schottland emphasized that the first activities of SERA will be to complete unfinished CWA projects where material is on the grounds. SERA will not be an unemployment relief program, but will be a work relief program, he said. No materials will be furnished, and no political subdivisions that submit projects must supply materials supervision and workers insurance. Schottland promised to find out at once when the SERA program can be launched in Orange county. He said probably the work relief program will start here about May 15. The SERA committee will be in complete charge of family allowances, he said, and workers will be issued cash instead of grocery orders as they now are. While different wages will be paid for skilled and unskilled workers, all who participate in the program will be able to earn the same amount up to their budgets, he said.

He said that in certain cases a small amount of material may be furnished to complete unfinished CWA projects, depending on the matters involved.

Under SERA, the county will know beforehand how much it is going to get, and can set family budgets and arrange programs accordingly, he said.

GREAT BRITAIN PRESIDENT AND RULED NOT TO ADVOCATES OF BE IN DEFAULT SILVER CONFER

Attorney General Asserts Likelihood of Legislation at This Session Held to Be Brighter

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(UP)—The government today announced a ruling by the attorney general which cleared Great Britain and four other European nations of being defaulters on their war debts under terms of the United States bill.

The ruling also cleared Italy, Czechoslovakia, Latvia and Lithuania. But it held the Soviet Union to be in default because it has not paid debts of previous Russian governments owed to the United States.

The favorable ruling on behalf of the five nations was on grounds that they had made "token payments" acknowledging their debts. No mention was made of 19 other war debtor nations which have made occasional token payments or no payments at all since July, 1932, as in the case of France.

The ruling was in response to a request of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, at the instance of President Roosevelt, to determine how to interpret the Johnson bill recently passed by congress. The bill forbade loans to any foreign government, political subdivision thereof, or any agency representing it, when such unit "in default in the payment of its obligations or any part thereof, to the government of the United States."

The major question at issue was how to interpret the word "default."

The attorney general ruled that "default" had a wide meaning under law, so that it was necessary to seek guidance in "the probable intent of congress."

In this light he quoted Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee M. C. Reynolds as believing that Great Britain was not in default. He further cited President Roosevelt's signature of the Johnson bill after such interpretation by Reynolds as indicating the president concurred.

MRS. MASSIE FREED FROM GENOA CLINIC

GENOA, Italy, May 5.—(UP)—Mrs. Thalia Fortescue Massie, recovered from an attempt at suicide due to strain after she divorced Lieut. Thomas H. Massie U. S. N., at Reno, today left the clinic where she was under treatment.

Accompanied by American Consul John R. Putnam and his wife Mrs. Massie went by motor to Sestri Levante, 30 miles down the Gulf of Genoa coast, for a rest. Mrs. Massie seemed to have recovered her spirits under the gentle treatment she received here at the clinic of Dr. Emilio Borelli with Mr. and Mrs. Putnam watching over her.

FEAR FELT FOR SAFETY OF VICTIM

Father Drives Into Desert to Keep Rendezvous With Kidnapers; Trip Futile

SEARCHERS INACTIVE

Authorities Indicate They Will Resume Hunt for Child Before Evening

TUCSON, Ariz., May 5.—(UP)—The fate of June Robles, 6-year-old kidnaped Arizona heiress, remained wrapped in mystery today, hours after the time set for her release had passed.

Hope yielded to bitter disappointment when the kidnapers failed to deliver the girl to her grief-stricken parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Robles.

Each passing hour revived fears she might be dead. It was 10 days ago that she was kidnaped by a "dark man" as she was returning home from school.

The last two nights, it was learned, her father drove into the desert in the hope the kidnapers would comply with their original promises to meet him along a designated highway and arrange for the payment of $15,000 ransom money. This course was outlined in a note Robles received at his electrical store an hour after his daughter disappeared.

The son of rich old Bernabe Robles, retired cattle baron, was accompanied on the drive by an unnamed person.

After patrolling the designated route last night, he returned home, disappointed at the number of cars on the highway. The machines were passing by chance and were not following him, it was said. He felt, however, their presence would deter the kidnapers from stopping him.

An air of quiet expectancy was apparent at the Robles home on Franklin street, where June's mother has been in a state of semi-collapse since she disappeared. Only a few cars drove in and out of the driveway, Bernabe Robles, who yesterday confided that "I feel something is going to happen," remained in seclusion.

The streets which were cleared of 1,500 volunteer searchers just a week ago to permit the kidnapers to deal directly with the family, again filled with groups of chattering tourists. Only a few appeared sanguine June would be returned safely.

Authorities who withdrew from the case last Tuesday after Bernabe Robles returned from Sonora, Mexico, where he was said to have contacted the kidnapers, intimated they would renew an active investigation unless the child was released shortly. Twelve federal agents, directed by Joseph Dunn of Los Angeles, were ready to take up the cold trail.

Many observers still believed Al Aguirre who accompanied the elder Robles on the Sonora trip, would return from his mysterious trip into Mexico with news of June. Nothing has been heard of him since he dropped out of the case.

"I searched everywhere," he said, "and I searched everybody. I questioned everybody who had the slightest resemblance to Dillinger, and hunted for possible stowaways."

HELEN KANE LOSES POOP PA DOOP CASE

NEW YORK, May 5.—(UP)—Supreme Court Judge Edward J. McCardell today, noon-poohed, judicially, at Helen Kane's poop-pa-doop claims, and threw her case against Max Fleischer, creator of the Betty Boop cartoons, out of court.

Miss Kane had sued Fleischer and the Paramount-Public corporation for $250,000, alleging that Betty Boop was an infringement on her own right and title to the expression that made her famous.

The young Rolph was quoted as saying "None of his real friends will ask him to run again."

"My father has served his native city and state for more than 30 years," the governor's said said in an interview. "It's time they gave him a rest."

Meanwhile Mrs. Fraser and Milton Lennon reported Rolph's condition was "satisfactory." They expect him to remain in the hospital for at least two more days. Members of his staff found it necessary to remove his clothing from the room to keep him in bed.

The body will be taken to Berwick, Pa., Woodin's former home, for burial tomorrow.

The AAA intends to establish a basis for completion of a new license for Los Angeles to replace the present one, it was explained. Conferences will be held locally with representatives of producers and other agencies on the market.

These representatives also will study the existing licenses in San Diego and Oakland.

Glassford's Request Is Disregarded

Members of Civil Liberties Union to Meet Workers in Public Confab

LOS ANGELES, May 5.—(UP)—Disregarding the expressed wish of Gen. Palham A. Glassford, federal conciliator, 15 carloads of labor sympathizers left here today for the Imperial valley, where they expected to confer publicly with holidaying laborers.

Chester D. Williams, member of the executive committee of the Southern California branch of American Civil Liberties union, said the union had found "impracticable" Gen. Glassford's request that the delegation not come today.

"The very circumstance mentioned by Gen. Glassford—the fact that the laborers are enjoying a holiday today—is the one that influenced the delegation," Williams said.

"Gen. Glassford said that the presence of labor organizers in the valley today made it 'inadvisable' that our delegation go too, precluding possible trouble. Our members felt that the fact that today is a Mexican holiday and that most workers would be assembled in Brawley, Mexicali and El Centro made the trip very 'advisable' indeed."

"We were to have accepted Gen. Glassford's advice and postponed the trip until Tuesday or Wednesday, we certainly would not have had a chance to talk to workers—who would have been in the fields—and our findings subsequently would have been subject to attack as the complaints of 'unemployed malcontents.'"

"I am at a loss to account for Gen. Glassford's suggestion, unless he has been influenced by the growers."

"We are going to give the pickers an assurance that others."

LIQUOR SALES TO MINORS CONDEMNED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 5.—(UP)—The California Congress of Parents and Teachers were recorded today as favoring teachers' tenure, federal aid to public schools, and stricter enforcement of liquor laws relative to sales to minors.

The recommendations were adopted in resolutions passed in the final session of the annual convention held here this week.

The board of directors chose San Diego as the 1935 convention city. Riverside also had extended an invitation. In the balloting on the convention site, San Diego received 49 votes and Riverside 16.

A recount of votes in the election of officers confirmed the choice of Mrs. C. H. Turner, Redondo Beach, as president of the organization for the coming term.

Supporters of Mrs. James K. Lytle, Los Angeles, demanded the recount. It revealed that Mrs. Turner defeated her opponent by 31 votes.

MAKES PLEA TO GET WORK FOR H. S. BOYS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 5.—(UP)—Approximately 150,000 California high school and college graduates who never have been able to land jobs are among the unemployed in this state, Vierling Kersey, superintendent of public instruction, said today as he voiced a plea to find work for the youths.

An immediate step, he suggested, might be taken by encouraging new service activities, such as window or house cleaning, lawn cutting and gardening, light catering and dog washing. He said the serious problem, he said, should be considered as a long term proposition, with retirement of older people one of the major responsibilities.

SERA RELIEF PROJECT TO BE STARTED IN ORANGE COUNTY ON FIFTEENTH OF THIS MONTH

Assuring members of the Orange county SERA committee that the new work relief project will be launched in Orange county about May 15, Charles Schottland, district representative of the state administrative office of SERA, discussed the program with members of the committee yesterday afternoon in the courthouse annex.

Municipalities had planned to begin completion of unfinished CWA projects immediately, but Schottland said yesterday that work relief could not be supplied in place of direct relief until R. C. Branion, state administrator, returns from Washington with definite instructions. Branion, he said, will return in two or three days.

One of the important points stressed by Schottland in the conference was that while heretofore the federal government has not put money into a county for relief unless the county has used up available resources such as county tax money and state bond money, Branion is trying to change the policy so that a county will get federal aid if it shows faith by spending its own money and drawing to the limit from state bond funds. This is the condition Orange county has been in, he said.

Schottland emphasized that the first activities of SERA will be to complete unfinished CWA projects where material is on the grounds. SERA will not be an unemployment relief program, but will be a work relief program, he said. No materials will be furnished, and political subdivisions that submit projects must supply materials, supervision and workers insurance.

Schottland promised to find out at once when the SERA program can be launched in Orange county. He said probably the work relief program will start here about May 15. The SERA committee will be in complete charge of family budgets, he said, and workers will be issued cash instead of grocery orders as they now are. While different wages will be paid for skilled and unskilled workers, all who participate in the program will be able to earn the same amount up to their budgets, he said.

He said that in certain cases a small amount of material may be furnished to complete unfinished CWA projects, depending on the matters involved.

Under SERA, the county will know beforehand how much it is going to get, and can set family budgets and arrange programs accordingly, he said.

GREAT BRITAIN PRESIDENT AND RULED NOT TO ADVOCATES OF BE IN DEFAULT SILVER CONFER

Attorney General Asserts Five European Nations Comply With Bill

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(UP)—The government today announced a ruling by the attorney general which cleared Great Britain and four other European nations of being defaulters on their war debts under terms of the Johnson bill.

The ruling also cleared Italy, Czechoslovakia, Latvia and Lithuania. But it held the Soviet Union to be in default because it has not paid debts of previous Russian governments owed to the United States.

The favorable ruling on behalf of the five nations was on grounds that they had made "token payments" acknowledging their debts.

No mention was made of 16 other war debtor nations which have made occasional token payments or no payments at all since July, 1932, as in the case of France.

The ruling was in response to a request of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, at the instance of President Roosevelt, to determine how to interpret the Johnson bill recently passed by congress. The bill forbade loans to any foreign government, political subdivision thereof, or an agency representing it, when such unit was "in default in the payment of its obligations or any part thereof, to the government of the United States."

The major question at issue was how to interpret the word "default."

The attorney general ruled that "default" had a wide meaning under law, so that it was necessary to seek guidance in "the probable intent of congress."

In this light he quoted Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Mr. McNamara, as believing that Great Britain was not in default. He further cited President Roosevelt's signature of the Johnson bill after such interpretation by McNamara as indicating the president concurred.

MRS. MASSIE FREED FROM GENOA CLINIC

GENOA, Italy, May 5.—(UP)—Mrs. Thalia Fortescue Massie, recovered from an attempt at suicide due to strain after she divorced Lieut. Thomas H. Massie U. S. N., at Reno, today left the clinic where she was under treatment.

Accompanied by American Consul John R. Putnam and his wife Mrs. Massie went by motor to Soettri Levante, 30 miles down the Gulf of Genoa coast, for a rest.

Mrs. Massie seemed to have recovered her spirits under the gentle treatment she received here at the clinic of Dr. Emilio Borelli with Mr. and Mrs. Putnam watching over her.

FEAR FELT FOR SAFETY OF VICTIM

Father Drives Into Desert to Keep Rendezvous With Kidnapers; Trip Futile

SEARCHERS INACTIVE

Authorities Indicate They Will Resume Hunt for Child Before Evening

TUCSON, Ariz., May 5.—(UP)—The fate of June Robles, 6-year-old kidnaped Arizona heiress, remained wrapped in mystery today, hours after the time set for her release had passed.

Hope yielded to bitter disappointment when the kidnapers failed to deliver the girl to her grief-stricken parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Robles.

Each passing hour revived fears she might be dead. It was 10 days ago that she was kidnaped by a "dark man" as she was returning home from school.

The last two nights, it was learned, her father drove into the desert in the hope the kidnapers would comply with their original promises to meet him along a designated highway and arrange for the payment of $15,000 ransom money. This course was outlined in a note Robles received at his electrical store an hour after his daughter disappeared.

The son of rich old Bernabe Robles, retired cattle baron, was accompanied on the drive by an unnamed person.

After patrolling the designated route last night, he returned home, disappointed at the number of cars on the highway. The machines were passing by chance and were not following him, it was said. He felt, however, their presence would deter the kidnapers from stopping him.

An air of quiet expectancy was apparent at the Robles home on Franklin street, where June's mother has been in a state of semi-collapse since she disappeared. Only a few cars drove in and out of the driveway, Bernabe Robles, who yesterday confided that "I feel something is going to happen," remained in seclusion.

The streets which were cleared of 1,500 volunteer searchers just a week ago to permit the kidnapers to deal directly with the family, again filled with groups of chatting townsfolk. Only a few appeared sanguine June would be returned safely.

Authorities who withdrew from the case last Tuesday after Bernabe Robles returned from Sonora, Mexico, where he was said to have contacted the kidnapers, intimated they would renew an active investigation unless the girl was released shortly. Twelve federal agents, directed by Joseph Dunn of Los Angeles, were ready to take up the cold trail.

Many observers still believed Al Aguilar, who accompanied the elder Robles on the Sonora trip, would return from his mysterious trip to Mexico with news of June. Nothing has been heard of him since he dropped off a bus enroute from Nogales to Tucson Wednesday night. Although friends insisted he went to Mexico on personal business, others were confident he was acting as intermediary for the Robles family.

COUNTY MASONS TALK PLANS TO AID CHILDREN

Representatives of Masonic lodges of Orange county met with Santa Ana lodge No. 241 last night in the Masonic Temple to discuss plans for participation in a movement to raise funds for the endowment fund of the Masonic Homes of California between now and the first of June.

G. Stanley Chapman, of Fullerton, recently made commander of the grand commandery of California, Knights Templar, presided as chairman at the meeting.

With the belief that members of Masonic lodges of California are unwilling that Masonic homes for children and for the aged be jeopardized because of economic conditions, the grand lodge of California is sponsoring a Masonic Homes Endowment month this month.

The Masonic endowment board has launched the campaign in every lodge in the state, it was stated, and is also carrying on a widespread effort to increase the endowment fund by the institution of every member to the need of adequate support of the institutions.

WILL ROGERS says:

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6. (To the Editor of The Register.) At the U. S. Chamber of Commerce meetings last time, Mr. Roosevelt appeared (in person) and delivered a lovely talk; this time he just sent the boys a note and told 'em to quit hollering "wolf" and go to work, "private business can and must take up the slack. The people will be impatient of those who complain." So the chamber looked at each other, scratched their heads, and went back to "passing resolutions." But the President did hand 'em out one bright hope. He said Congress was about through.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

"If terrorism does not exist, our moral support will have done no harm."

Leaders Make Trip

Among individuals making up the caravan, Williams said, were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Pratt, the former director of the Municipal League; Frederick Sparks, chairman of the Friends of the American Constitution; Dr. Alexander Sweet, writer and lecturer; and Mrs. H. J. Voorhies, candidate for state assemblyman from San Dimas.

"The delegation goes to the valley because the growers broke faith with us," Williams said.

"Some time ago, when we planned to visit the valley, Supervisor Graham of Imperial county suggested instead that a committee of growers picket and interested persons meet in Los Angeles. We agreed, and later Supervisor Graham telegraphed that he was forced to rescind the proposal."

Graham has since informed him, Williams said, that "the valley is fed up with sob sisters and busy-bodies."

THREATENED TONG WAR HELD AVERTED

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5. (UP)—The intervention of a powerful eastern tong, the On Leongs, cooled ruffled oriental in Pacific coast Chinatowns today at a time when authorities and the Chinese Peace society feared a new and bloody tong feud was about to break.

The OnLeongs informed another nationally known group, the Hip Sings, that the latter would be held responsible for any bloodshed or property damage resulting from a disagreement with Lui Fong family association.

Inspector Jack Manion, head of the Chinatown detail here, reported the timely intervention. He believed it will effect a peace agreement in the dispute between the Hip Sings and the Lui Fongs.

Other Republicans are discussing Sanders' resignation, but there has been no clear concentration on any one man as his successor.

The Independent or Progressive group demands a complete shift in leadership. Westerners were suggesting someone from the West as a means of bringing in strength from that section. Republican senators from the farm states insisted that adequate attention be given to the agricultural interests.

Sanders' withdrawal was regarded several weeks ago as inevitable. He issued a call for a meeting in Chicago on June 5 to select his successor.

Agitation for a third party entered into the discussions.

Senator Borah indicated his belief that the Republican party would be succeeded by another alignment if it did not free itself from the influence which brought us to our present plight.

More conservative members of the Republican party were careful to refrain from expressions of opinion.

SAMUEL INSULL TO LAND HOME MONDAY

ABOARD S. S. EXILONA, May 5.—(UP)—Two days away from an ignominious landing in his adopted country, Samuel Insull today faced the future with fortitude but depression.

The Exilona nosed into mist and lowering clouds as it neared New York, and the 74-year-old utility man, his temperament mercurial as ever, showed that he felt the change from the perfect weather the ship had encountered. Insull kept to his cabin.

NEW YORK, May 5.—(UP)—Samuel Insull Jr., arrived in New York aboard the Pennsylvania railroad's Broadway limited today, to meet his father, the former mid-west utility magnate, due to arrive Monday on the steamer Exilona.

RAMSEY'S ACTION HELD CAUSE OF OMISSION OF S. A. SCHOOL PROJECTS FROM CWA PROGRAM

Declaration that former County CWA Director Robert W. Ramsey had written personal notations of disinterest and disapproval across the face of requests for approval of improvement projects on Santa Ana schools, thus preventing their inclusion in the CWA program, while at the same time he was telling members of the city school board that it was "up to Sacramento" and "only a matter of time" until the work should be started, was made today by school officials.

The disclosure followed appearance yesterday afternoon of Superintendent of Schools Frank A. Henderson and Business Manager George Newcom before the county SERA board, when they asked that the work on Santa Ana schools be included if possible in the new program which is expected to start in Orange county on May 15.

The project for demolition of Spurgeon school, which would have furnished 2250 hours of work at a cost of $4153.40, practically all of which would have been labor, was the specific project mentioned which officials said Ramsey disapproved although it had been characterized by state CWA officials as of the favored type which should receive approval. The request was filed January 17 but was never sent through official channels because of Ramsey's action, it was stated.

Complaints Heard

The complaint was not the only one heard at the meeting. Several times members of the SERA committee expressed the wish that there had been some permanent evidence of CWA work in Santa Ana at the completion of the program.

The school system also filed several other projects, work on which was never started under CWA, it was brought up. At the meeting yesterday, Superintendent Henderson asked for approval of the projects, which was assured by members of the committee.

The biggest project submitted by the schools to CWA and on which work never started was the project to remodel the old Willard school building on North Main street and to perform other work on four elementary schools to insure safety of children in the schools. This project was submitted on February 1 and would have given 12,078 man-hours of work at a cost of $21,000. The school officials never heard from it.

Other Projects

Another project which never was done under CWA after application had been made was to improve 12-140 square feet of sidewalk and 2641 feet of curbing at schools, which would have furnished considerable work.

Still another project to improve school grounds which was killed because it was advised that the project be combined with a city project and because funds ran out and the work was not done. Yet another was a project to construct electric motors at the high school, a plan which would have given 1050 man-hours of work.

Another project which ended with the same unsatisfactory results was to give women of the community 866 hours of work in the schools during vacation time. This project was submitted on December 13, 1932, and that was the last the school officials ever heard of it.

Indicating a purpose not to resist prosecution, J. T. McKillip and Mrs. Elsie Fern Cately, of Long Beach, held on perjury charges yesterday after they had testified at McKillip's probation hearing in connection with another offense, appeared before Justice K. E. Morrison in Santa Ana later in the day and waived preliminary hearing. They were ordered held for trial in superior court.

The couple's difficulty arose from asserted false testimony both gave at McKillip's recent trial on a charge of failure to render aid after an automobile wreck. Mrs. Cately sided McKillip in an attempt to establish an alibi defense, by testifying that he had been at her home in Long Beach at the time the offense took place.

At McKillip's probation hearing before Judge James L. Allen yesterday, McKillip admitted that the alibi story was false. Judge Allen then ordered both McKillip and Mrs. Cately charged with perjury. Mrs. Cately posted $1000 bail yesterday.

The court granted McKillip probation for five years, on condition that he serve 90 days in jail and forfeit his driving license.

PRESIDENT AND ADVOCATES OF SILVER CONFER

executive to negotiate international silver agreements.

Mr. Roosevelt promised the silver leaders he would make a close study of the many proposals over the week-end. His study, it was understood, would include the amendment by Sen. Elmer Thomas, D. Okla., providing for nationalization at the 50-cent figure.

Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. participated in the discussion and several conferees said he appeared to favor the nationalization proposal.

Sen. William H. King, D. Utah, leader of the group, said the president was informed there must be silver legislation before adjournment and that Mr. Roosevelt "listened sympathetically" and assured the senators that all proposals would receive equal consideration.

It was indicated that if a satisfactory agreement was reached at today's conference, all silver proposals now pending in the senate would be withdrawn until a compromise plan could be written into legislation. Thomas indicated he would be willing to withdraw his amendment.

"It looks fine for an agreement," said Sen. Key Pittman, D. Nev.

COUNTY MASONS TALK PLANS TO AID CHILDREN

Representatives of Masonic lodges of Orange county met with Santa Ana lodge No. 241 last night in the Masonic Temple to discuss plans for participation in a movement to raise funds for the endowment fund of the Masonic Homes of California between now and the first of June.

C. Stanley Chapman, of Fullerton, recently made commander of the grand commandery of California, Knights Templar, presided as chairman at the meeting.

With the belief that members of Masonic lodges of California are unwilling that Masonic homes for children and for the aged be jeopardized because of economic conditions, the grand lodge of California is sponsoring a Masonic Homes Endowment month this month.

The Masonic endowment board has launched the campaign in every lodge in the state, it was stated, and is also carrying on a widespread effort to increase bequests in order that the institutions may eventually be sustained through income from endowments as has been accomplished elsewhere.

The appeal is directed toward voluntary contribution of $2.00 per member, as a minimum, it was announced, and efforts are being made to arouse the consciousness of every member to the need of adequate support of the institutions.

WILL ROGERS says:

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6. (To the Editor of The Register.) At the U. S. Chamber of Commerce meetings last time, Mr. Roosevelt appeared (in person) and delivered a lovely talk; this time he just sent the boys a note and told 'em to quit hollering "wolf" and go to work, "private business can and must take up the slack. The people will be impatient of those who complain." So the chamber looked at each other, scratched their heads, and went back to "passing resolutions." But the President did hand 'em out one bright hope. He said Congress was about through.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Other Republicans are discussing Sanders' resignation, but there has been no clear concentration on any one man as his successor.

The Independent or Progressive group demands a complete shift in leadership. Westerners were suggesting someone from the West as a means of bringing in strength from that section. Republican senators from the farm states insisted that adequate attention be given the agricultural interests.

Sanders' withdrawal was regarded several weeks ago as inevitable. He issued a call for a meeting in Chicago on June 5 to select his successor.

Agitation for a third party entered into the discussions. Senator Borah indicated his belief that the Republican party would be succeeded by another alignment if it did not free its organization "from the influences which brought us to our present plight."

More conservative members of the Republican party were careful to refrain from expressions of opinion.

Another project which never was done under CWA after application had been made was to improve 12-140 square feet of sidewalk and 2641 feet of curbing at schools, which would have furnished considerable work.

Still another project to improve school grounds which was killed because it was advised that the project be combined with a city project and because funds ran out and the work was not done. Yet another was a project to construct electric motors at the high school, a plan which would have given 1050 man-hours of work.

Another project which ended with the same unsatisfactory results was to give women of the community 664 hours of work in the schools during vacation time. This project was submitted on December 13, 1933, and that was the last the school officials ever heard of it.

RAMSEY'S ACTION HELD CAUSE OF OMISSION OF S. A. SCHOOL PROJECTS FROM CWA PROGRAM

Declaration that former County CWA Director Robert W. Ramsey had written personal notations of distaste and disapproval across the face of requests for approval of improvement projects on Santa Ana schools, thus preventing their inclusion in the CWA program, while at the same time he was telling members of the city school board that it was "up to Sacramento" and "only a matter of time" until the work should be started, was made today by school officials.

The disclosure followed appearance yesterday afternoon of Superintendent of Schools Frank A. Henderson and Business Manager George Newcom before the county SERRA board, when they asked that the work on Santa Ana schools be included if possible in the new program which is expected to start in Orange county on May 15.

The project for demolition of Spaulding school, which would have furnished 2550 hours of work at a cost of $4183.40, practically all of which would have been labor, was the specific project mentioned which officials said Ramsey disapproved although it had been characterized by state CWA officials as of the favored type which should receive approval. The request was filed January 17 but was never sent through official channels because of Ramsey's action, it was stated.

The complaint was not the only one heard at the meeting. Several times members of the SERRA committee expressed the wish that there had been some permanent evidence of CWA work in Santa Ana at the completion of the program.

The school system also filed several other projects, work on which was never started under CWA. It was brought under CWA, it was stated, Superintendent Henderson asked for approval of the projects, which was assured by members of the committee.

The biggest project submitted by the schools to CWA and on which work never started was the project to remodel the old Willard school building on North Main street and to perform other work on four elementary schools to insure safety of children in the schools. This project was submitted on February 3 and would have given 12,079 man-hours of work at a cost of $21,000. The school officials never heard from it.

Other Projects
Another project which never was done under CWA after application had been made was to improve 12-140 square feet of sidewalk and 2641 feet of curbing at schools, which would have furnished considerable work.

Still another project to improve school grounds which was killed because it was advised that the project be combined with a city project and because funds ran out and the work was not done. Yet another was a project to construct electric motors at the high school, a plan which would have given 1050 man-hours of work.

Indicating a purpose not to resist prosecution, J. T. McKillips and Mrs. Elsie Fern Lately, of Long Beach, held on reentry charges yesterday after they had testified at McKillips' probation hearing in connection with another offense, appeared before Justice K. E. Morrison in Santa Ana later in the day and waived preliminary hearing. They were ordered held for trial in superior court.

The couple's difficulty arose from asserted false testimony both gave at McKillips' recent trial on a charge of failure to render aid after an automobile wreck. Mrs. Cately aided McKillips in an attempt to establish an alibi defense, by testifying that he had been at her home in Long Beach at the time the offense took place.

At McKillips' probation hearing before Judge James L. Allen yesterday, McKillips admitted that the alibi story was false. Judge Allen then ordered both McKillips and Mrs. Cately charged with perjury. Mrs. Cately posted $1000 bail yesterday.

The court granted McKillips probation for five years, on condition that he serve 90 days in jail and forfeit his driving license.

executive to negotiate international silver agreements.
Mr. Roosevelt promised the silver leaders he would make a close study of the many proposals over the week-end. His study, it was understood, would include the amendment by Sen. Elmer Thomas, D. Okla., providing for nationalization at the 50-cent figure.
Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. participated in the discussion and several conferences said he appeared to favor the nationalization proposal.
Sen. William H. King, D. Utah, leader of the group, said the president was informed there must be silver legislation before adjournment and that Mr. Roosevelt "listened sympathetically" and assured the senators that all proposals would receive equal consideration.
It was indicated that if a satisfactory agreement was reached at today's conference, all silver proposals now pending in the senate would be withdrawn until a compromise plan could be written into legislation. Thomas indicated he would be willing to withdraw his amendment.
"It looks fine for an agreement," said Sen. Key Pittman, D. Nev.

BOARD OKAYS REQUEST FOR GASOLINE, OIL

Chairman J. K. McDonald of the Orange county SERA committee was authorized to contact Harry L. Jones, state director of co-operation under the state committee, and to urge him to consider an emergency application for gasoline and oil for the United Co-operatives Exchange of Orange County, representing 14 units in the county, at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the courthouse annex.

The exchange has not yet filed formal application for government aid in projects submitted to the committee, and some doubt was expressed as to the possibility of the group securing aid until the projects are approved.

The request for gasoline was for 4600 gallons and for 225 gallons of oil, to be used by the various units and by the central warehouse located at Huntington Beach boulevard and Seventeenth street, for the next six weeks. A letter to the committee said that a considerable amount of vegetables and other foodstuffs will be wasted unless the gasoline is available.

The letter also announced the appointment of an executive warehouse committee comprised of C. R. Whiting of Buena Park, E. B. Guard, of Brea, M. Siddoway, of Santa Ana, E. D. Proffer, of Cypress, and O. L. Gun, of Stanton.

OWNERSHIP IN PROPERTY DEAL IS DETERMINED

The $100,000 Anaheim properties that Mrs. Louise Pillsbury claimed belong to her estranged husband, and which he and Mrs. Laura Bell Resh claimed were owned by Mrs. Resh, his business partner, belong to Mr. and Mrs. Pillsbury, but are subject to a life estate interest of Mrs. Resh, according to a decision just filed by Superior Judge G. K. Scovel, after hearing the triangular Pillsbury-Resh-Pillsbury court wrangle this week.

In deciding the title to the property, which includes an ice plant and a 20-acre orange grove at Anaheim, the court denied Mrs. Pillsbury's suit for divorce, although granting her demand that the property be declared community property of the couple.

The proviso, however, that Mrs. Resh retains a life estate interest in the property, which gives her possession and control during her lifetime, and Mrs. Pillsbury's "victory" one of questionable benefit to her, court attaches commented.

The Pillsbury-Resh triangle was not new to the court. Some years ago Mrs. Pillsbury sued her husband for separate maintenance and won a court order requiring him to pay her $40 per month, which she states has not been paid. At that time, she claimed in her latest suit, he denied that he had any interest in the property, which was held in the name of his partner, Mrs. Resh.

In her latest action Mrs. Pillsbury cited an asserted agreement between her husband and Mrs. Resh, which showed that she had agreed to deed him the property in question. These deeds, however, were not recorded, and the property remained in the name of Mrs. Resh. Mrs. Pillsbury charged in an attempt by Mrs. Resh and Pillsbury to conceal his ownership of the property.

Mrs. Pillsbury's action was filed last January 26. On March 2, Mrs. Resh filed a suit against Pillsbury and his wife, to quiet title to the property in her favor. The two suits were heard together.

Fred May, 18-year-old Orange youth who confessed to two burglaries of Orange service stations following his arrest Thursday, waived his preliminary hearing yesterday and was promptly arraigned in superior court before Judge James L. Allen, where he pleaded guilty and was sentenced, without delay, to the Preston School of Industry at Lone for three years.

May had admitted burglary of the Johnson and Nichols and the Barger service stations.

H. B. AUDITORIUM PACKED FOR THIRD ANNUAL MUSIC FESTIVAL; PRINCIPALS HEAR L. A. ORATOR

With more than 400 young people taking part, the third annual music festival of the combined orchestras and glee clubs of Orange county, high schools was held at the Huntington Beach Union High school last night. Previous to the musical program, members of the High School Principals' association met for their monthly dinner, being addressed by Joseph Scott, noted Los Angeles attorney.

The school auditorium was packed. Each school was given 100 invitations and after the reserved sections were filled, the public was admitted. The musical program was as follows:

"From the Land of the Missions" (Mustel), band, directed by S. J. Mustel, Santa Ana; "Lafayette Suite No. 1" (Bizet), orchestra, directed by Margaret Squires, Huntington Beach; "Lightly Dancing, Lovely Marchioness" (Le-maire-Stickles), "The Last Night" (Clokey), "Annie Laurie" (Buck), by Girls' Glee club, directed by Myrtle Martin, Santa Ana; "Hunting Song" (Harding), "Sylvia" (Speaks), "The Green-Eyed Dragon" (Charles-Price), Boys' Glee club, directed by Wilda Kagaris, Huntington Beach; "Gloria" from "Twelfth Mass" (Mozart), Glee clubs, quartet and orchestra; soprano, Susanne Cochran, Excelsior; alto, Bonnie Hamilton, Santa Ana; tenor, Jack Bowne, Fullerton; bass, Clinton Campbell, Santa Ana; directed by Alan Revell, Santa Ana.

Scott addressed the principals on "The Necessity of Educating Our People on the Privileges of Democracy." He compared the conditions of the people of the United States with the conditions in Italy, Russia and Germany, declaring that democracy has far more to offer than any other form of government. He declared the depression was not financial but mental and that the way out was to raise the intelligence of the population through education in the schools.

He stressed the cost of educating the boys and girls as against the cost of not educating them and maintaining them in institutions.

MANSLAUGHTER DEFENDANT IN GUILT DENIAL

Preparing to defend himself against a charge of manslaughter, growing out of a fatal automobile crash involving three cars, near Fullerton, several weeks ago, Garland Little, 24, of Pico, pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial when arraigned late yesterday before Superior Judge James L. Allen.

The charge was brought against Little following the deaths of Mrs. May McCay of Huntington Park and Irvin Epperly, 21, of Anaheim, in the automobile wreck. A coroner's jury found that Little had been negligent in the affair, and there was testimony that he had been drinking liquor shortly before the accident occurred.

Guthrie, who died in Anaheim March 2, and also to terminate the joint tenancy of the deceased in community property, has been filed in superior court by Harry J. Guthrie, surviving husband. The estate is estimated to be worth $2205.82, consisting of personal property.

Mrs. Delores Goodwin, of Orange, who said her husband, S. Arthur Goodwin, permitted his children by a former marriage to co-use her, and, on one occasion, choke her, was granted a divorce late yesterday by Superior Judge G. K. Scovel. The Goodwins married in Lake City, Iowa, June 1, 1917, and separated April 19, this year, at Orange.

FEDERAL JOB HEAD APPROVES RENOVIZE DRIVE

Complete endorsement of the Renovize Santa Ana campaign, as a means of putting men to work and relieving unemployment conditions, has been given by the United States Employment Service, according to a letter received by J. P. Baumgartner, general chairman of the campaign, from Charles Fallert, county manager of the National Re-employment service.

"The Renovize Santa Ana campaign is wholly in accord with the plans of the United States Department of Labor and the Recovery Administration to put men to work in private industry and at part time jobs," Fallert's letter states.

"Co-operation will be given by the National Re-employment Service to any person seeking men to work. The honor pledge system devised for the Santa Ana Renovized campaign leaves the time of employment and the selection of the employee entirely to the signer of the pledge.

"Any pledge signer will have the complete co-operation of this office in selecting men to do work who are now on our unemployed rolls."

Coming at a time when spring cleaning is in the air, when all reports indicate a return to better conditions, and when a helpful, hopeful attitude is evident once again, the Renovize movement is attracting support from people in all walks of life and in every part of the city.

Several have telephoned campaign headquarters telling of the home Renovizing they expect to do in the near future and expressing a desire to sign the honor pledges which will shortly be made available to property owners.

Be Wise.....
RENOVIZE!
The reign of fear, and worry, and depression is over.

A new day is here, bringing brotherly anxiety for needs of fellow humans, to replace the old regime of dollar worship. Tangible accumulations, such as dollars and stocks and bonds, vanished in a twinkling, while the intangible eternities of brotherly love and kindness and sympathy survive.

And with the years and tribulations has come wisdom. Hereafter we shall exalt the joys of LIVING, and not getting!

We shall buy and use things that we need for living TODAY, instead of denying ourselves these aids to a joyous life while we save dollars for someone else to spend.

And above all, the new wisdom tells us that we go forward and upward TOGETHER, or else, as in recent years we go down, together.

No man can long profit at the expense of his fellows. No one can succeed except as those around him also succeed.

We have once again learned the lesson that CO-OPERATION IS AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY TO A SUCCESSFUL, HAPPY LIFE, as an individual and as a community.

The new wisdom stresses the vital importance of co-operative effort, neighborliness, and mutual boosting, so that each may prosper because ALL are prospering.

So—BE WISE! RENOVIZE! It will stamp you as expressing the new wisdom of the new day. It will signalize your determination to look forward and go forward, leaving the past depressions in the past.

This new wisdom calls for CONFIDENCE. It calls for COURAGE. It calls for DETERMINATION. It calls for PERSISTENCE. It matters not what we KNOW, and what we FEEL, unless we actually DO SOMETHING about it.

We can't show confidence and courage while we fearfully hoard dollars and deprive ourselves of things we need and want. We CAN show confidence and courage, and an abiding faith in the nation and the universe, by throwing our fears and worries out the window, and spending those dollars for what we want, and need, TODAY.

Yesterday is gone. Tomorrow may never come. TODAY is the time to think, and feel, and act for a better home life, a happier Santa Ana, and a more prosperous and successful America!

Why not take a day off tomorrow, and survey your needs. Look at the yard, at the house, at the garage, at the car, at anything else over which you have control!

POULTRYMEN TO MAKE STUDY OF TAX MATTERS

Two committees which were appointed to investigate tax matters affecting poultry raisers at the last meeting of the poultry department of the Orange County Farm Bureau are preparing to start their work immediately.

One of the committees is charged by the department to decide to investigate reports that the tax on poultry in the county is to be increased this year.

Another committee appointed was asked to investigate what was said to be sales tax charges on poultry and goods used in producing poultry which poultry men believe should not be subject to sales tax, inasmuch as the materials are used in production and not for resale.

Members of the department have decided to operate the department on the order of a Farm Center, to hold regular monthly meetings and to work mainly through group action.

GUN CLUBS TO FACE COURT ON NEW CHARGES

Eight new complaints have been filed against Orange county gun clubs and their officials in Huntington Beach justice court charging waste of water, to supplant a group of 13 such cases filed against the same clubs and others. It was explained today by Deputy District Attorney W. F. Menton, in charge of the prosecutions.

The 13 cases filed last year concerned offenses alleged to have been committed during 1932, while the new complaints just brought, cover 1933 offenses. There are five counts charged in each of the eight complaints, which were filed against officers of the Blue Wing gun club, Casadora Gun club, Blue Hill Gun club, Los Pinos gun club, Sunset Gun club, Seame gun club, Westminster Gun club, and the Farmers Gun club.

Plans for arrangements of the defendants are being made through arrangement with L. A. West, Santa Ana attorney representing most of the gun clubs. Menton said. Criminal proceedings against corporations provide that they have 10 days in which to answer summons to court.

Only two of the previous 13 cases were tried, one against the West Shore Gun club resulting in a conviction and the other, against the Blue Wing club, ending in an acquittal. The West Shore club case was carried to the supreme court, where the conviction was upheld.

The Public Forum

Communications under this heading must be signed by the name of the writer. These communications express the opinions of the writers of them. The opinions may or may not be the opinions of The Register.

Editor, The Santa Ana Register, Dear Sir:

What I think of Dr. Townsend's old-age revolving pension plan is that it will never be sanctioned by congress as it now is, for that body will readily see the ridiculousness of it. Since it is proposed that the revenue to pay the old age pension be derived from a sales tax, which method of taxation has already proven itself a heavy load and a curse upon the masses, and since the vast majority of the people have no aged eligible relation to benefit by the pension, it is obvious that the proposed sales tax of 10 per cent on necessities and 25 per cent on luxuries would work a hardship on, and lessen the purchasing power of, probably 75 per cent of the people.

The purchasing power of a favored minority could not correct our present plight in any degree to warrant the load placed upon the average man by a high sales tax. Out of the $15 per month spent, from 10 to 25 per cent is put back into the revolving fund and the 75 to 90 per cent goes through the old customary channels and ultimately finds its way into the bank vaults to be hoarded, together with its already bulging contents. It seems nothing but a diabolical scheme to fasten a national sales tax upon the poor people. The $200 pension part of it is merely a bait and will fade away into insignificance. Is Dr. Townsend trying to emulate Dr. Pope of Oklahoma, about whom there appeared an article in the Eagle Lodge journal, and who had taken in during one year over $54,000 in ten cent membership fees, or is he a tool of capitalism, endeavoring to saddle all the load of recovery upon the poor?

The plan is similar to trying to lift ourselves up by our bootstraps. It can't be done. Now, I am for a national pension for everyone who needs a pension, regardless of whether he has been a soldier or not, and I do not consider the nation strictly civilized until we have it. But I do not want it paid out of such a beggarly, pernicious nuisance as a sales tax.

If the revenue were derived from a higher income tax on incomes, let us say, exceeding $200 per month on a sliding scale, the higher the income the higher the percentage of levy, then we would consider the endorsement and support of the plan. Then the rich who have the money, produced by labor, would pay, let us say, about 90 per cent and the poor the remaining 10 per cent. Why doesn't someone start circulating such a petition? We voted out intoxicating beverages. We voted them in again. We can just as easily vote a national pension to everyone who needs it, man or woman, who is a law-abiding citizen of the United States.

M. C. CHRISTENSEN.

Editor, Santa Ana Register, Dear Editor:

One of the things this time of anxious and perplexing readjustment should have given the people of the civilized nations is the lesson of simple living. Less speed and more attention to some of the things that made the Nineteenth Century outstanding in the progress of time. But it is apparent that we are not getting the lesson intended. To be sure we have accomplished something (?) in the 24 years already lived out in this Twentieth Century, but we will have to take a serious inventory and make some serious adjustments before we can compare with the achievements of the last Century.

Some of us who have passed the fiftieth mile-post and who have seen the transition from the ox cart and the horse-drawn buggy and wagon to the "air-flow" automobile—while we rejoice in all human progress—cannot help but place in contrast some things in this age of speed with the days before 1900, and have some regrets on the passing of a day when there was time for neighborly visitation, and when the fine art of conversation was a thing to be treasured.

Leaving out the matter of our insanity in going into the World War (had we listened to Bryan and LaFollette we would have been better off today), the tragic consequences of our Twentieth Century speed mania is the high mortality of business men between the ages of forty and fifty, and the frightful accidents on the highways.

Much of this is entirely unnecessary, and it may be attributable to the effects of a nervous complex from which civilization is suffering.

In our cities there is not a minute of the day in which the speed ordinance is not being violated, not by drunks alone, but by otherwise law-abiding and respectful people.

Perhaps our western civilization can learn from the Orientals something of the art of meditation and tranquility of spirit.

The roots of crime and domestic discord strike deep into the nervous complex of the age. The cause for speed is both an effect and a cause. The best cure for this modern form of insanity is to know that the highest form of happiness is to be had through simple living and time for enjoyment of the better things. The report of the Home Research Bureau that American women spend two billion dollars annually by unwise buying is significant.

The trend of our living in this Century is toward materialism. The cycle of high literary production which characterized the Nineteenth Century came to close with the dawn of this Century.

The reading of good literature is foreign to our Bachchanalian make-up. Rather, our poor nerves are soothed by tearing through a 26-mile zone at a 50-mile clip.

Very truly yours,
R. L. JOHNSON.

EQUIPMENT OF GAMBLING SHIP IS CONFISCATED

A second raid by authorities of Orange and Los Angeles counties upon the gambling ship Monte Carlo last night resulted in confiscation of gambling equipment on the boat, and its storage in the Orange county jail.

Roulette tables, "crap" games and other paraphernalia were stripped from the boat when Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff Merle Dean, Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey, and Robert Sandon, district attorney's investigator, participated with Los Angeles county officials in the new raid.

Plans to include the other gambling ship, Johanna Smith, in the raid last night disclosed that the latter boat had departed from "gambling row" off the Orange county coast.

Meanwhile, Orange county authorities prepared to proceed with prosecution of nine defendants arrested on gambling charges the preceding night when District Attorney Buren Flitts of Los Angeles, and S. B. Kauffman, of Orange county, headed a joint raid on the Monte Carlo, taking 19 game operators and water taxi operators into custody.

Conspiracy charges against the entire 19 defendants will be prosecuted in Los Angeles county, as well as charges against the eight taxi operators, under the law prohibiting soliciting or transporting patrons to visit gambling games. Orange county takes jurisdiction over gambling charges against nine game operators, against whom complaints were filed in Seal Beach justice court.

Each of the defendants posted $500 bail on each of the two complaints lodged against him. The Orange county defendants are Ed Turner, owner of the boat, charged with eight counts of violating the state gambling law; J. C. Meek, Randolph J. McCormack, Joe Wilson, John Williams, Thomas Wykes, Bert T. Bost, Terry Cowan and John E. Randolph. Their arraignments are set for next Wednesday before Justice Fred Smith at Seal Beach.

JOHN HILL WINNER IN TALK CONTEST

Eight boys, four from Julia Lathrop Junior high school and four from St. Joseph's school, competed yesterday afternoon in talks on topics of the day at Lathrop school.

John Hill of St. Joseph's, who chose as his subject, "City Government," was adjudged the winner of the contest. He emphasized the necessity for juvenile courts, but pointed out that city officials were generally lenient with youth and were always willing to give offenders a square deal. He wound up his oration by saying the right living on the part of youth would minimize the work of the courts.

Elson Gaebe won second place with a talk on "Evils resulting from Present Liquor Conditions." Others competing were: Jack Green, "The value of Games Involving Physical Exercise;" Harold Richards, "A Plea for the Auditorium;" Teddy Bernstein, "Science;" Bill Webb, "Age of Inventions;" Jack Murphy, "Benefits of Education;" Jerome Duffy, "Advantages of the Navy."

FOUR HURT IN TWO AUTO ACCIDENTS

Two wrecks within a block of each other, one last night and one early today, caused injury to four persons and considerable damage to four cars.

Cars driven by Mrs. L. W. Lauderbach, 1805 Spurgeon street, and Byron Robinson, 414 Wilshire street, Fullerton, collided at Fifteenth and Main streets at 9:40 o'clock last night. Robinson and Robert Sellers, 219 Commonwealth avenue, Fullerton, were taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital in an ambulance, where Robinson was confined overnight and Sellers was given first aid treatment. Mrs. Lauderbach was cut on the head. Clarence Robinson, 128 1-2 Brookdale avenue, Fullerton, received slight injuries at 5:45 a. m. today when his car crashed into the rear of a car driven by Henry F. Willman, 37, Pasadena, and then veered into a telephone pole south of Seventeenth street on North Main. Boardman's car was demolished.

The will does not make provision for their son, William F., and daughter, Mary, expressing confidence that their mother will provide amply for them.

FULLERTON, May 5.—More than 270 persons from all parts of Southern California were guests of the Methodist church Friday night at a Good Samaritan dinner, served by members of the church as a means of raising money. The guests were received at the banquet hall doors by six ushers, girls clad in pastel semi-formal gowns. Each was given a small bouquet of pansies, and all were led through a "garden gate," past a "Mardi Gras" which was being wound by 12 girls, into a beautiful garden scene, where the tables for the guests were arranged.

The Methodist orchestra, directed by Jesse Scribner, played during the evening. Mrs. Harold Nielson accompanied for the orchestra. Special musical numbers were provided by James Baker, who sang selections from "The Desert Song."

Among the special guests were Dr. and Mrs. James Geisinger, district superintendent of the Methodist church, and his wife; Dr. and Mrs. Kent of Monrovia, a former pastor, and his wife; the Rev. Don Ford of Whittier; Harry May, secretary of the chamber of commerce, and a large group of Fullerton merchants; Logan Jackson, sheriff of Orange county; Miss Clara Morley, head of Orange County forum, and Mrs. J. The revival is timed to coincide with Barrie's 74th birthday, which occurs May 23.

Marion Clayton and Byron Foulger play leading roles. Miss Clayton who is remembered vividly and with delight by all who saw her in "Peter Pan," was the only one considered for the part of the Madcap Babbie, which put Maud Adams on the pinnacle of national popularity.

"The Little Minister" owing to its high favor with Playhouse audiences will continue for its second week next week.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

SUCCESS
The White House and the Senate have turned so much inside heat on the boys in the Senate that the passage of the administration tariff bill is now a matter of course.

Much of the shrewd backstage leading job was done by Vice President Garner. Vice Presidents never attend secret party meetings of Senators, but Garner attended the Democratic tariff caucus, and, what is more unusual, he made a speech. Garner knows how to handle Congressmen from long experience in the House. He talked political turkey to the boys, and may have been the one who figured out the idea of using the war-within-two-years scare to bring them around. It sounds like him.

VIOLETS

Old-timers say they have rarely seen such strong inner pressure from above, at least not since the New Deal started.

As a result, the Democratic leaders are asserting there will be no more than one Democratic vote lost (Huey Long). They estimate it too optimistic. They will lose five to eight votes, but that is not enough to make any difference. The bill is certain to pass and probably without major restrictions.

The restriction made in the caucus was purely a sop to the consciences of wayward senators. It requires only that the President have a hearing before he acts; he can have it open, or closed, or perfunctory or real.

When President Roosevelt gets the bill passed, he should send Violets to Garner. Floor Leader Robinson, et al. They told him at first it could not be done.

FEUD

The flyweight champion of Congress, Senator Carter Glass, is going to get a step-ladder and climb up on Huey Long one of these days.

Their rather long-range feud has been reopened since the Democratic caucus on the tariff bill.

While Huey is thoroughly disliked by many Democratic senators, no one dislikes him more than Glass. It was something of a party sensation, therefore, when Huey appeared at the secret caucus and announced he had the proxy of Glass to vote against the administration tariff bill.

"Why that So-and-So," gasped Glass when he heard about it next day. "I never did anything of the kind. Huey just overheard me when I telephoned to Colonel Halsey (Secretary of the Senate) and said I was ill and would be unable to attend the caucus."

FROLIC

Sly Senator Glass figured out a way to get even.

He went out to the baseball game with Vice President Garner and Democratic floor leader Robinson. Next to Glass, Senator Robinson is the best Long-hater in all the world. The two—Glass, Robinson and Garner—were photographed in a group by a newspaper photographer who edged up to Glass and asked him to identify the two gentlemen in the picture with him.

Glass gave Garner a proper identification, but told the news photographer that Robinson was Huey Long.

In the newspaper next morning, the picture appeared with Robinson identified as his worst political enemy.

Glass has told no one about his little joke and is still cackling to himself as Huey and Robinson eye each other in passing.

BOOST

The White House has been working around on the inside for several days to amend the Securities Act strongly and swiftly.

It is being spurred by the sagging commodities and stock markets. Also by the fact that some business men are beginning to hum the blues again.

Certain responsible people were called in to help plan the change. The changes will encourage expansion of financing operations, possibly even to the extent of moderating banking regulations.

Opponents of the truth-in-securities bill are confident that this one thing will do more to make the pessimistic business men change their present tune than anything else which could be done now.

REPUBLICANS

Ex-Senator Jim Watson is not a candidate for the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee any more. He has passed that word to friends.

That means that the Republican party now has no horses entered. Several big Republicans whose names have been mentioned in connection with the job have told party workers that they would not be it under any circumstances.

Insiders are beginning to believe at the name of the next chairman has not yet been publicly mentioned.

OTES

There has not been an important talk from the Treasury since Secretary Morgenthau took over the job. His department is air-tight.

Much is being whispered about Frank Walker taking over the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee. He is the only man to whom Chairman Farley could gladly surrender. However, Farley may change his program and give up the Postmaster Generalship instead of the party chairmanship. He likes politics. Walker does not.

It is true that Attorney General Cummings keeps one grade of cigars for himself and another to pass around, but his reason is not the usual one. He smokes a rather cheap brand and does not care or dare to pass them out to friends.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

MOLEY

New Yorkers who are keen to have the government do something about (silver, devaluation, or what have you) find it difficult to coax the White House into doing anything. It pains them no end to find the President always busy when they call. Moreover Secretary Morgenthau is something less than hospitable to visitors bearing monetary tonics.

Local insiders with excellent administration contacts hint that the White House is more than mildly dissatisfied at the failure of devaluation to raise prices and wants no more truck with currency theorists. They add that any silver concessions the President may make will be a matter of political expediency—not economic conviction.

But failure to get the President's ear—or that of his Treasury secretary—doesn't discourage New York inflationists. Apart from their Congressional friends they are working on influential administration advisers. Raymond Moley and Frank Walker have been talked to at length. Moley is very much on the job and once again is automatic heretofore that he's the man to sell if you have a plan to present to the President.

The approach to the advisers has featured the angle of political repercussions. The argument has been stressed that if Mr. Roosevelt vetoes silver legislation and the price level continues to fall he'll be on the spot when Congress meets again. It has been suggested that in such a case he might become as much a "prisoner of Congress" as Mr. Hoover was.

Moley and the others on whom this has been tried have shown attentive interest but have been extremely careful to make no commitments.

STIMSON

Ex-Secretary of State Stimson reflected the views of a surprisingly large number of top-rank New Yorkers when he supported the President's request for a free hand to negotiate trade and tariff agreements. Despite opposition for political reason most local lights agree it's the only way to handle the problem.

They point out that Congressional debate on trade agreement would defeat their purpose by giving fast-moving speculators a chance to cash their chips in advance and confirm that tariff action must be quick and secret to be effective.

Some of those who privately think this way are important Republicans—but the local party officially frowns on Stimson as a maverick. Republican leaders don't feel the party is so blessed with issues it can afford to throw any way. Stimson has never stood well with the state machine since T. R. used him to upset it way back in 1912. Nor did his service with Hoover add to his weight in party councils.

But one thing they can't call Stimson is radical. His law firm, Robinson, Robinson, Putnam & Robinson, is renowned for the conservative quality of its estate business.

TRADE

A leading British banker visiting this country offers an explanation for America's recent trade gains at Britain's expense. He says European nations are so accustomed to dealing in sterling that they are willing to accept it as a standard of value even when it fluctuates in terms of gold—whereas they are suspicious of the dollar and what may happen to it.

PASTIME

Several Stock Exchange and Curb firms found their style cramped by the current "intolerance" of Exchange authorities towards pool manipulations. So they got together and sponsored formation of a new firm which is not a member of any exchange but does a thriving business in certain stocks.

A number of recent "jiggles" trace to this source. The participating member firms have carefully camouflaged their connections with the outside house but their statisticians and customers men know how and when to give favorable reports and "disinterested" advice about the stocks being jiggled. The beauty of the scheme is that the firms behind the gun cut in on the deal two ways—sharing in pool profits very much sub-rosa and also garnering brokerage commissions from transactions with their own customers.

Exchange heads sent something peculiar but cannot get evidence on which to act. Of course they have no authority over a non-member house. It's possible that the Exchange regulation bill can be used to quash this luscious little pastime.

COTTON

Whether American cotton production is being outstripped or not, the work figures show that foreign cotton production is increasing. Cotton ginning machinery is going abroad—a sure sign—and consular officers report increased acreage in India, Egypt and Russia.

Secretary Wallace told a friend he had no faith in the Bankhead bill as a means of curtailing production. But in spite of cheating by cotton planters there is curtailment. Renters and crop-sharers are joining the unemployed in the deep South.

JAPAN

The historians of Elihu Amou and Yosuke Matsuoka about Japanese "fighting" in China are interpreted here as a sweet—and by no means accidental—break for the armament makers and Japanese militarists.

The militarists—who want to go right on biting hunks out of Asia—have been much fired by the growing ascendancy of the liberals—who want to chew what has

OBSERVE 32ND ANNIVERSARY OF LUTHERAN AID

ORANGE, May 5.—Observing the 32nd anniversary of the founding of the Ladies' Aid society of St. John's Lutheran church, members of that organization were hostesses to a number of friends and members of the Martha society of the church Thursday afternoon.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. A. C. Bode; the vicar, the Rev. Kenneth Ahl, and the faculty of the St. John's Lutheran church school, William Batterman, principal; E. E. Wunderlich, Paul Hedder, J. J. Troester and Mrs. Eda Gorath were special guests.

Mrs. E. J. Bandick is president of the Ladies' Aid society and Mrs. John Elliste of the Martha society. The program was opened by a talk by the Rev. Mr. Bode. Mrs. Mamie Kogler was chairman of the program committee. "The Lost Chord" and "Mother, My Dear" were sung by Mrs. William Batterman, Mrs. George Dieker, Mrs. R. L. Precht, Mrs. Paul Kogler, Mrs. Alfred Eisenbraun and Mrs. Alfred Dieker, with E. E. Wunderlich as the accompanist. Other features of the program were a talk by the Rev. Kenneth Ahl, "The Old Spinning Wheel," sung by Miss Clara Fitch, costume readings by Miss Lorene Beecher, piano solo, "Valse Brillante" and a vocal solo, "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride," by Clarence Borchard, who played his own accompaniment.

Refreshments were served at tables attractive with crystal baskets of sweets and the program was given at this time.

Mrs. McKelvy Is Shower Hostess

OLIVE, May 5.—Mrs. Grace McKelvy was hostess at her home at a shower this week, complimenting Mrs. Violet Wagner, Anahelm. Colorful late spring flowers were used throughout the home in decorating for the occasion.

The pleasant evening was spent in playing court whist, with first prize going to Miss Annabelle Heitsch and the second prize to Mrs. Billy Haley. Following refreshments, served at the card tables, the honor guest was showered with many lovely gifts to be used in her new home.

Guests of Mrs. McKelvy were Mrs. Paul Beckman, Mrs. Violet Moore, Miss Marie Brelje, Mrs. Bert Cackopp, Mrs. R. D. Wagner, Mrs. Ben Gelker, Miss Tillie Blankmeyer, Mrs. D. Blanke-Mayer, Miss Marie Rice, Mrs. Charles Bunch, Miss Vivian Wagner, Mrs. Herbert Meierhoff, Miss Inez Heitsch, Miss Annabelle Heitsch, Mrs. D. McKelvy, and the guest of honor, Mrs. Violet Wagner.

been bitten off already. The hope is that Amou—as spokesman for the foreign office was chosen to drop his brick "inadvertently" in such a way that the hostile world reaction would strengthen the militarists' hand at home.

Of course Amou's remarks might have been made by chance—though Foreign Office spokesmen don't usually take chances. But when Matsuoka crashed the hospitable front pages of American newspapers the case was clinched. The militarists evidently didn't believe in waiting for Santa Claus to bring their stockpiles.

Informed New Yorkers incidentally comment that the main difference between liberal militarists and the liberals is that the liberals are willing to take ten years longer to reach the ultimate goal.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

SUCCESS
The White House and the Senate leaders turned so much inside heat on the boys in the Senate that the passage of the administration tariff bill is now a matter of course.

Much of the shrewd backstage leading job was done by Vice President Garner.

Vice President never attend secret party meetings of Senators, but Garner attended the Democratic tariff caucus, and, what is more unusual, he made a speech.

Garner knows how to handle Congressmen from long experience in the House. He talked political turkey to the boys, and may have been the one who figured out the idea of using the war-within-two-years scare to bring them around. It sounds like him.

VOLETS
Old-timers say they have rarely seen such strong inner pressure from above, at least not since the New Deal started.

As a result, the Democratic leaders are asserting there will be no more than one Democratic vote lost (Huey Long). Their estimate is too optimistic. They will lose five to eight votes, but that is not enough to make any difference. The bill is certain to pass and probably without major restrictions.

The restriction made in the caucus was purely a sop to the consciences of wavering senators. It requires only that the President have a hearing before he acts; he can have it open, or closed, perfunctory or real.

When President Roosevelt gets the bill passed, he should send it to Garner, Floor Leader Robinson, et al. They told him at first it could not be done.

FEUD
The flyweight champion of Congress, Senator Carter Glass, is going to get a step-ladder and climb up on Huey Long one of these days.

Their rather long-range feud has been re-opened since the Democratic caucus on the tariff bill.

While Huey is thoroughly disliked by many Democratic senators, no one dislikes him more than Glass. It was something of a party sensation, therefore, when Huey appeared at the secret caucus and announced he had the proxy of Glass to vote against the administration tariff bill.

"Why that So-and-So," gasped Glass when he heard about it next day. "I never did anything of the kind. Huey just overheard me when I telephoned to Colonel Halsey (Secretary of the Senate) and said I was ill and would be unable to attend the caucus."

FROLIC
Sly Senator Glass figured out a way to get even.

He went out to the baseball game with Vice President Garner and Democratic floor leader Robinson. Next to Glass, Senator Robinson is the best long-hauler in all the world. The three—Glass, Robinson and Garner—were photographed in a group by a news photographer who edged up to Glass and asked him to identify the two gentlemen in the picture with him.

Glass gave a proper identification, but told the news photographer that Robinson was Huey Long.

In the newspaper next morning, the picture appeared with Robinson identified as his worst political enemy.

Glass has told no one about his little joke and is still cackling to himself as Huey and Robinson eye each other in passing.

BOOST
The White House has been working around on the inside for several days to amend the Securities Act strongly and swiftly.

It is being spurred by the sagging commodities and stock markets. Also by the fact that some business men are beginning to hum the blues again.

Certain responsible people were called in to help plan the change. The changes will encourage expansion of financing operations, possibly even to the extent of moderating banking regulations.

Opponents of the truth-in-securities bill are confident that this one thing will do more to make the pessimistic business men change their present tune than anything else which could be done now.

REPUBLICANS

Ex-Senator Jim Watson is not a candidate for the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee any more. He has passed that card to friends.

That means that the Republican Party now has no hopes entered. Several big Republicans whose names have been mentioned in connection with the job have told party workers that they would not take it under any circumstances.

Insiders are beginning to believe at the name of the next chairman has not yet been publicly mentioned.

OTES

There has not been an important move from the Treasury since Secretary Morgenthau took over the job. His department is air-tight.

Much is being whispered about Frank Walker taking over the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee. He is the only man to whom Chairman Farley could gladly surrender. However, Farley may change his program and give up the Postmaster Generalship instead of the party chairmanship. He likes politics. Walker does not.

It is true that Attorney General Cummings keeps one grade of cigar for himself and another to pass around, but his reason is not the usual one. He smokes a rather cheap brand and does not care to dare to pass them out to friends.

NEW YORK
By James McMullen

MOLEY
New Yorkers who are keen to have the government do something about (silver, devaluation, or what have you) find it difficult to crash the White House gate these days. It seems to them no end to find the President always busy when they call. Moreover, Secretary Morgenthau is something less than hospitable to visitors hearing monetary tonics.

Local insiders with excellent administration contacts hint that the White House is more than mildly disappointed at the failure of devaluation to raise prices and wants no more truck with currency theorists. They add that any silver concessions the President may make will be a matter of political expediency—not economic conviction.

But failure to get the President's ear—or that of his Treasury secretary—doesn't discourage New York inflationists. Apart from their Congressional friends, they are working on influential administration advisers. Raymond Moley and Frank Walker have been talked to at length. Moley is very much on the job and once again his axiomatic heresabouts that he's the man to sell if you have a plan to present to the President.

The approach to the advisers has featured the angle of political repercussions. The argument has been stressed that if Mr. Roosevelt vetoes silver legislation and the price level continues to fall he'll be on the spot when Congress meets again. It has even been suggested that in such a case he might become as much a "victim of Congress" as Mr. Hoover was.

Moley and the others on whom this has been tried have shown attentive interest but have been extremely careful to make no commitments.

STIMSON
Ex-Secretary of State Stimson reflected the views of a surprisingly large number of top-rank New Yorkers when he supported the President's request for a free hand to negotiate trade and tariff agreements. Despite opposition for political reasons most local lights agree it's the only way to handle the problem.

They point out that Congressional debate on trade agreements would defeat their purpose by giving fast-moving speculators a chance to cash their chips in advance and confirm that tariff action must be quick and secret to be effective.

Some of those who privately think this way are important Republicans—but the local party officials frown at the suggestion. As a maverick Republican leader doesn't feel the party is so blessed with issues it can afford to throw any away. Stimson has never stood well with the estate machine since T. R. used him to upset it 'way back in 1912. Nor did his service with Hoover add to his weight in party councils.

But one thing they can't call Stimson a radical. His law firm—Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts—is renowned for the conservative quality of its estate business.

TRADE
A leading British banker visiting this country offers an explanation for Britain's recent trade gains. He says European nations are so accustomed to dealing in sterling that they are willing to accept it as a standard of value even when it fluctuates in terms of gold—whereas they are suspicious of the dollar and what may happen to it.

PASTIME
Several Stock Exchange and Curb firms found their style crumpled by the current "intolerance" of Exchange authorities towards pool manipulations. So they got together and sponsored formation of a new firm which is not a member of any exchange but does a thriving business in certain stocks.

A number of recent "jiggies" trace to this source. The participating member firms have carefully camouflaged their connections with the outside house but their statisticians and customers' men know how and when to give favorable reports and "disinterested" advice about the stocks being bulled.

The beauty of the scheme is that the firms behind the sun cut in on the deal two ways—sharing in pool profits very much sub-rosa and also garnering brokerage commissions from transactions with their own customers.

Exchange heads scent something peculiar but cannot get evidence on which to act. Of course they have no authority over a non-member house. It's possible that the Exchange regulation bill can be used to quash this luscious little pastime.

COTTON
Whether American cotton production is being curtailed or not, New York figures show that foreign cotton production is increasing. Cotton ginning machinery is going abroad—a sure sign—and consular officers report increased acreage in India, Egypt and Russia.

Secretary Wallace told a friend he had no faith in the Bankhead bill as a means of curtailing production. But in spite of cheating by cotton planters there is curtailment. Renters and share-sharers are joining the unemployed in the deep South.

JAPAN
The histrionics of Biji Amai and Yosuke Matsuoka about Japanese "rights" in China are interpreted here as a sweet—and by no means accidental—break for the armament makers and Japanese militarists.

The militarists—who want to go right on biting hunks out of Asia—have been much tickled by the growing ascendancy of the liberals—who want to chew what has been bitten off already. The hope is that Amara—as spokesman for the foreign office was chosen to drop his brick "inadvertently" in such a way that the hostile world reaction would strengthen the militarists' hand at home.

Of course Amara's remarks might have been made by chance, though Foreign Office spokesmen don't usually take chances. But when Matsuoka crashed the hospitable front pages of American newspapers the case was clinched. The militarists evidently didn't believe in waiting for Santa Claus to fill their stockings.

Informed New Yorkers incidentally confirm that the main difference between liberal militarists aims in Japan is that the liberals are willing to take ten years longer to reach the ultimate goal.

War Relics Displayed At High School

ORANGE, May 5.—An interesting and valuable collection of Civil war relics is in the library of the Orange Union High school. The collection, started by members of the junior class in history, includes guns, medals, money and papers and books.

Of interest is a New York Herald, dated April 15, 1865, which relates the death of Abraham Lincoln, who died on the day before. A story of the southern prisons, written immediately after the war, entitled "Andersonville," is also in the collection.

Two muzzle loaders, a barrel cleaner, powder horn, a pistol, confederate bills, a key winder watch, made of coins, and a Bible carried through the Civil war are among the other interesting relics on display.

Smith also spoke of work being done on county roads. A resurfacing job is now in progress on a road on the north side of the Santa Ana canyon, east of Yorba, he said.

Harry S. Adams, high priest of the chapter, gave a report of the grand chapter which he attended in San Francisco April 17 and 18. Refreshments were served, with C. H. Robinson heading the refreshment committee.

By HARRY GRAYSON

In trying to talk himself into a major league uniform, Sam Gray talked himself out of one.

The veteran right-hander's trouble with Rogers Hornsby amounted to nothing more than a wisecrack in regard to a monkey suit.

Despite Louis R. Von-Weise and the big and coal millions back of the Browns, it appears that the club is retrenching. So is the St. Louis public, insofar as the American league is concerned. An opening day low was set there the other day when the Cleveland outfit was paid off on 4000 paid admissions.

Well, only 28 new uniforms were purchased, and when Gray dropped around for his, he was handed a 1933 model that had been dry cleaned.

"Don't rate a new uniform," he demanded.

The quartermaster explained the shortage.

TALKS HIMSELF DOWN RIVER

Gray, who barely was hanging on, anyway, carried his case to Hornsby, and when new duds were not forthcoming, grunted: "Huh! A big league ball club in the minors!"

"You shouldn't complain," replied the dominant manager coldly. "You're a minor league pitcher."

And he was. Gray departed for Milwaukee that night.

CONTANKEROUS MR. FERRELL

Cleveland fans generally are not in sympathy with Wesley Ferrell, the once invincible right-hander, who remains a violent holdout.

Alva Bradley, who has paid the North Carolinian $10,000 and $12,000 in that order for the past half dozen years, offers him a basic salary of $5000, with a sliding scale whereby he could collect $11,500 by winning 20 games.

Big, handsome, only 26, and with all the ability in the world, Ferrell should be one of the idols of the sport, but he has an ugly disposition. He always is right and his teammates wrong. If a curve ball is smacked, the catcher should have prescribed a fast one.

Ferrell has walked from the box a half dozen times with no one warmed up. On other occasions he has declined to leave the premises when paged. The young man was fined $1500 and suspended for 10 days in Boston last summer when he refused to bow when ordered to by Roger Peckinpaugh.

NOT ANOTHER BAMBINO

Because he was a splendid hitter as a pitcher, Ferrell, six feet two and weighing 190 pounds, had an idea he was another Babe Ruth.

But last August, when he decided he was finished as a flinger, he discovered that poking the pill daily was a much more perplexing problem than being up there every fourth or fifth day. His average fell to .250, and he gave an excellent imitation of a wooden Indian in left field.

BUT TROSKY MAY BE A GEHRIG

General Manager Billy Evans says Cleveland should accept an infielder like Eddy Meyer of Washington for Ferrell, as what club wouldn't under the circumstances.

Evans believes Cleveland has a second Lou Gehrig in Hal Trosky—the "no" is sounded as in boss—who crashed the large show in his third year in the organized game.

The Indians have two of the best young infielders in baseball in Trosky and Shortstop Bill Knickerbocker.

With the polished Willie Kamm at third, a steady influence at second base, where Eddie Moore is filling in for the nonce, might switch the American league pennant parade from the Atlantic seaboard for the first time in 14 falls.

S. A. LUCKY IN TENTH TO BEAT ORANGE, 1 TO 0

Behind the brilliant pitching of young Jack Dugan, a kid with a delivery as deceitful as "Chandu" Watson's, the Orange club of the tiny Orange County league gave the Santa Ana Stars of the proud National wheel a real "hoss race" at the Municipal Bowl last night.

Santa Ana finally won in 10 innings, 1 to 0, but not for lack of poise or ability on the part of Dugan. Tom Denney was first up for the Stars in the last of the overtime frame, and broke up the game with what should have been held to an ordinary single.

Denney's drive went into left-center and Orange's guardian in that sector, Ernie Unzelmann, made the mistake of trying for a diving shoestring catch instead of playing it safe for a one-base knock. The ball got away from him completely, and by the time he was able to retrieve it, the nimble-footed Denney was rounding for third. Then the belated throw-in struck Denney on the shoulder and caromed off into the Orange dugout. Denney picked himself out of the dirt and scurried home with the only run of the evening.

Wilbur Stinchfield, one-time Orange Hi teammate of Dugan's, was on the knoll for Santa Ana, and was even more effective than Jack. Stinchfield held the county loopers to three hits, while striking out 19, his high hard one keeping the Orangemen at bay in every inning. None got further than second on him.

Santa Ana threatened only once before Denney completed the circuit. In the eighth Denney beat out a bunt and raced to third on George Preble's single to right. Preble taking second on the throw-in. But Dugan was unperturbed. He fanned Rod Ballard and retired Ed Daley at first on a nice bit of fielding by Shortstop Hahn.

Jim Costes again proved his mettle as a front fielder last night. Trolling for the Santa Ana Green Cats, he beat Fullerton of the National league, 4 to 1, at Fullerton. Costes whiffed 12, issued only one walk, allowed only six singles. The base on balls cost him a shutout. Hits by Pister and Youel gave the Cats victory in the eighth. The score:

S. A. Badminton Team In Match With Claremont

Practically every member of the Santa Ana Badminton club will see action on the Y. M. C. A. courts tonight when Santa Ana opposes Claremont in an inter-city tournament.

Twenty matches are scheduled, according to President Milan Miller. There will be five men's singles, two women's singles, four men's doubles, three women's doubles and six mixed doubles.

A feature will be a return meeting of Santa Ana's Twila Heath and Claremont's Florence Bagaley. Miss Heath won the initial struggle.

FULLERTON 9-2 CONQUEROR OF DON BALL CLUB

Rallying in the fourth and eighth, Fullerton's Svarm vanquished Santa Ana's Dons, 9 to 2, in an eastern jaysce conference baseball clash at Fullerton yesterday.

After he fanned his first two opponents in the fourth inning, Pitcher Ray Furuta of Santa Ana walked the next two and the Yellowjackets followed with five consecutive singles to score five runs. Santa Ana was leading at the time, 2-1, through a fourth-inning rally in which Art Wilde singled to score Leo Morse and Bill McDaniel.

'SACHEL' PAGE ON MOUND FOR GIANTS

"Satchel" Page, famed race pitcher who has struck out as many as 24 in a regulation nine-inning game, may be on the mound for the Los Angeles Colored Giants tomorrow when they invade Santa Ana to play Santa Ana at the local club's West First street park. Game-time is 2:30.

HUBBELL, N. Y. ACE, LOSSES FIRST GAME

NEW YORK, May 5.—(UP)—The first defeat of Carl Hubbell, the Giants' ace southpaw, today strengthened the hopes of other National league contenders to overtake the champions in the early season race.

Hubbell received his setback yesterday after winning three straight when the Pirates won 4 to 3. They pounded out 12 hits.

MARTY SETS SEVEN FEET AS 'CEILING'

SACRAMENTO, May 5.—(UP)—Fresno State college was looked on as certain winner of the annual Far Western conference track and field meet today. The Bulldogs, who have claimed the crown the past two years, were ranked somewhat above their opponents, San Jose State, Chico State, University of Nevada and California Aggies.

The big feature of the meet was the appearance of Walter Marty, Fresno's high jumper, who promised to make an official try at clearing seven feet and establishing a world record that would stand longer than the average.

GUS SONNENBERG, WRESTLER, WEDS

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., May 5.—(UP)—Gus Sonnenberg, former heavyweight wrestler and Miss Mildred Mitchell, Riverdale, L. I., were married here today by Justice of the Peace Thomas P. Kerwin, of Saybrook.

Derby Colts Menaced By Stable Fire

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Ky., May 5.—(UP)—The gayest Kentucky Derby crowd since the war swarmed over this classic course today to thrill to the 60th running of America's greatest test of the thoroughbreds.

But everything was offered that any racing fan could want. There was a distinct favorite, Cavalcade, a close second choice, a well balanced field, and a tremendous long shot.

An unexpected but thrilling part of the entertainment was a stable fire last night that for a time threatened the entire Derby field, but only one entry was in actual danger. However, a long shot, and several other horses were led from the flaming structure into the main enclosure.

Mata Hari, one of the favorites, was in a stable only 200 feet from the one on fire. She was not appreciably disturbed by the commotion of Louisville firemen fighting the flames. All horses in the doomed barn were saved. Damage was $75,000.

CAVALCADE IS STILL FAVORED IF TRACK WET

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5.—(UP)—Dodging turf showers, thousands of turt enthusiasts streamed into the great white racing plant at classic Churchill Downs today to witness the 60th running of the Kentucky Derby.

A light shower fell at 10:30 and continued for more than half an hour. Briefer but brisker showers fell at intervals before noon. The weather was oppressively muggy, with not even a suggestion of a breeze. At noon the sky was choked with ominous clouds.

Even if a muddy track should develop there would be no special change in the betting line, which favors Cavalcade, Mata Hari, Peace Chance and Bazaar, because the entire field was rated as at least fair in heavy going. Cavalcade itself is listed as a superior nuder. Thomas, Sgt. Byrne, Peace Chance, Blue Again and Singing Wood are all regarded as formidable candidates over a slippery track.

The crowd which began arriving at the Downs just as the sun came up, had swelled to thousands by noon.

The rail in front of the clubhouse was packed solidly with spectators, mostly women, five hours before the Derby was scheduled. Only a few of the fainter-hearted were driven to cover by the gusty rains.

LONG BEACH HI BLANKS SAINTS TO CINCH TITLE

Long Beach Poly was crowned baseball champion of the Coast Preparatory league today, after sweeping its seasonal record chase with an 8-0 victory over Santa Ana high school at Poly field yesterday.

Unable to solve the contrary trajectories of Pitcher Dick David, Clyde Cook's Saints were limited to a pair of singles, both hammered out by Catcher Al Halderman in the fourth and sixth. Ten Santa Anans struck out. Only six reached first base, three getting there on walks and one on a flier's choice.

Living up to their reputation of being the poorest defensive club in the conference, the Saints erred 11 times to further embarrass their chucker, Willie Jones. Despite miserable support, Jones held Lyle Kinnear's visiting Hares under control until the sixth frame, when four hits and six Saint errors produced six Long Beach runs.

In annexing its first championship, Long Beach dethroned San Diego, king-pin of the Coast league for many seasons.

The Saints may not turn in their suite next week until they have challenged Santa Ana jaysce to another "Civil war" game. The prep nine has been defeated by the Dons seven straight times this year, but never has been at full strength.

SHELLENBACK WINS 262ND COAST GAME

LOS ANGELES, May 5.—(UP)—The jinx which descended on Frank Shellenback's shoulders after the veteran Hollywood pitcher set a new Pacific Coast league record for victories was lifted today, and with its departure Hollywood shook off its losing streak.

Shellenback won his 262nd game in Coast league competition the first week of the campaign at Oakland. Thereafter he had difficulty in getting the side out to appearances against other clubs but his old skill was very much on display yesterday when he shut out the San Francisco Seals with seven hits. The veteran spitballer's mound work gave the Stars a 5-0 win for their first victory in four starts against the Seals. The Stars collected 11 safeties off Gibson, Malls and Gabler.

WEST WINDS

Painful indeed is the process of digging up scores of past Santa Ana-San Diego high school baseball contests, if contests they can be termed.

This season's rout, 24-1, only emphasized the absolute lack of success Santa Ana has had against Hilltop teams in recent years. A check-up is almost unbelievable, shows Santa Ana making only 11 runs in its last six starts against San Diego while San Diego was rolling up the staggering total of 108, an average of 18 a game.

Scores of recent "games":

Date	Santa Ana	San Diego
1932-San Diego 14, Santa Ana 0.
1932-San Diego 22, Santa Ana 7.
1931-San Diego 16, Santa Ana 7.
1932-San Diego 18, Santa Ana 2.
1933-San Diego 14, Santa Ana 1.
1934-San Diego 24, Santa Ana 1.

The Santa Anans were so mortified after this year's waxing that they neglected to fetch the score-book home with them.

Most National Night league managers tremble in fear of the champion Torrance Terrors, secretly believe Torrance will repeat last year's phenomenal baseball success. But not Joe Rodgers of Huntington Beach, who sniffs in disdain, places Santa Ana and Olive, as well as Huntington Beach to finish in front of Louie Nera and Company.

Rodgers is the most outspoken manager in night ball. He also is one of the most colorful. Possibly he is picking a deliberate quarrel with Torrance's hot-headed pilot, "Spud" Murphy, in anticipation of enhancing game receipts; probably he is relishing a brush with other league critics. At any rate, Rodgers shoots straight from the hip:

"Torrance will not finish in the first division. They were plenty lucky last year. Nera and the others won't hit all those home runs because the outfielders will play them more intelligently. The pitching is better all over the circuit, too, and smart pitching will stop Nera. He didn't hit a homer off our Sabela all year, did he? Santa Ana is the club to beat. It won't lose nine games by one run this season. Look out for Olive, too. If Heman has a good year, Olive can finish ahead of everybody. And Westminster will be ahead of Torrance as well."

H. T. Foust may have failed as a boxing promoter at Delhi, but as years come and go he can glean some satisfaction from the fact that he gave two real fighters their start. Lee Ramage of San Diego and Young Peter Jackson, Los Angeles Negro, both big timers now, did their first boxing under Herr Foust here in 1930.

Cuttin' it short:

The first nine holes of the Santa Ana Country club were opened for play ten years ago

UMPIRE QUIGLEY'S JAW HURT BY FOUL

NEW YORK, May 5.—(UP)—Ernie Quigley planned to leave Good Samaritan hospital here today after an X-ray revealed his jaw was not fractured. He suffered contusions of the muscles.

The veteran National league umpire was hit by a foul from "Chick" Harkey's bat in the Cincinnati-Brooklyn game yesterday.

The matter was brought up by Acting Mayor Cummings, who referred to proceedings now pending before the council looking toward a 20-year lease to Capt. J. M. Anderson of Hermosa Beach.

The council adopted a resolution authorizing Mayor Frank B. Champlin and City Clerk G. W. Prior to sign a contract with J. C. Hickey, Alhambra contractor, for the execution of the Arch Beach sewer work. It calls for payment of 75 per cent of the cost of labor and materials delivered each month.

This action was taken following an opinion of City Attorney Milburn G. Horvey that the city would be joined to any suit growing out of any accident in which one or more persons was injured. The matter was brought up by Acting Mayor Cummings, who referred to proceedings now pending before the council looking toward a 20-year lease to Capt. J. M. Anderson of Hermosa Beach.

The council adopted a resolution authorizing Mayor Frank B. Chapman and City Clerk G. W. Prior to sign a contract with J. C. Hickey, Alhambra contractor, for the execution of the Arch Beach sewer work. It calls for payment of 75 per cent of the cost of labor and materials delivered each month.

Councilman Wilson, commissioner of parks, was given power to grade and roll three lots on Thalia street, just east of Coast boulevard, and which will be used as a playground. Miss Elba Johnson, head of La Escuela del Mar, requested the work on her promise that all children in the neighborhood would be permitted to take part in the supervised play, which will continue throughout the year, and to use the playground at all other times.

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

The Great Offensive, by Maurice Hindus, published by Harrison Smith and Robert Haas.

Maurice Hindus is esteemed as one of the most reliable and observant writers on Russia. Furthermore he is impartial. In "The Great Offensive" which is the first book since "Red Bread" this author emphasizes particularly the progress that Soviet Russia has made since the revolution. Not only has the country established an industrial epoch in Russia but vast resources of mineral and chemical resources have been discovered which have surprised scientists and geologists.

More important than anything else that the Soviets have accomplished is the idea of national planning. "If the Soviets were to fall today, the one idea that would be sure to survive them is that of national planning."

There has been much inefficiency and incompetence in the face of the new machinery which this author does not fail to point out. This author says: "It is because Russia has leaped and not grown into industrialism that she has had such success in building factories and such difficulty in operating them. It is easy to buy machinery ready-made in Germany, America, or England; it is not so easy to develop a worker competent to run the machines. At another point he says: 'Judged . . . in terms of everyday material satisfactions, the first Five Year Plan, which is the first step in the Great Offensive for a new society, a new world, and a new human personality, has not only failed to improve, but has actually lowered the material standard of living.'"

Mr. Hindus is one of Soviet Russia's best critics and as well one of its most able publicists. He speaks of the dread of war which has almost overwhelmed the Russian leaders but he says: "If fear of war has been an emotional burden for her—a strain on her nerves—it has also been a stimulus and a challenge."

It will be comforting to those who are fearful of the Communist world revolution to read that, in the opinion of this author, although the Bolsheviks cherish as much faith in the inevitability of world revolution as he cherishes her, the author for the movement has cooled. Even the Communist International has lost its old-time belligerence . . . gone is the old fire and the old tempestuousness. It no longer even treats the world to exciting oratory. . . . The men who now guide its destinies have no thunder and no lightning in them.

Paderewski by Charles Phillips, published by The MacMillan company.

This author says that Paderewski's story is really two stories: the story of a statesman and the story of an artist. This biography is more than a biography. The life of Paderewski is interwoven with the rebirth of a nation, with the history of music, with the remaking of Europe following the war and all those influences in the life of the virtuoso are intelligently, ably and beautifully dealt with in the book. His analysis of and tribute to the Polish people is as fine as Salvador de Madariaga's erudite analysis of the Spaniard, the Englishman, and the Frenchman.

Again and again Conrad and Modjeska are quoted for the assistance that both the writings of Conrad and the dairy of Modjeska afford on the background and the life of Paderewski.

A generation which has never known Paderewski through his playing will, because of this book, warm to the same love for the composer which those who have thrilled to his masterful renditions hold.

In addition to all the "extra" features which the competent handling of Paderewski's unusually useful life bring into the book there are of course included the many personal anecdotes about the artist and statesman which illustrate his kindness, his determination, his zealous self-criticism, his modesty.

The book is both delightful and important.

The New Dealers by the Unofficial Observer, published by Simon and Schuster.

"The New Dealers" is one of the most enlightening books which has been written this year, for it contains a comprehensive "who's who" of the men who have moved into Washington as the administrators of the "New Deal." The book is indexed so that it can be used as a reference book when a new item gives reason for refreshing one's memory on any of the fifty, more or less, individuals who are included in its pages. It is, however, exceedingly readable. The author, whoever he is, is a skillful, polished writer who by the very clarity of his method eases the way to distinguishing the men who bear the names so frequently read in the newspapers.

The author believes that the present revolution, which he regards as an accomplished fact, is inevitable. "Franklin Delano Roosevelt," he says, "did not invent the New Deal; he does not own it; it is only by chance that he administered it and it will go on even if he should cease to be its greatest advertisement. He invented nothing in the New Deal. He combined . . . familiar elements so calmly and with so friendly a smile, that even after a year of the New Deal there are still people who do not realize that a revolution has taken place that a revolution has taken place that a revolution has taken place."

Whether or not a revolution was accomplished in America in 1934 will be accepted as a statement of fact to some people only in years to come although it is answered in the affirmative in the mind of this author today.

One of the author's bon mots is: "Popularity is the sex-appeal of politics. And he continues at this point to say that if you have it, nothing can hold you down on the farm. 'The New Dealers' is a book that unprejudiced people cannot afford to be unfamiliar with."

JANET GAYNOR BROADWAY TO AND BAXTER ON STATE SCREEN
SHOW "THIRTY DAY PRINCESS"

Two feature films bringing four of the most popular and best known stars in motion pictures will show at Walker's State theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. It was announced today by Manager Vic Walker. The pictures are "Paddy the Next Best Thing," with Warner Baxter and Janet Gaynor in the leading roles, and "Master of Men," featuring Jack Holt and Fay Wray.

Baxter and Miss Gaynor appear together for the first time since "Daddy Long Legs." In this story, laid in Old Ireland, Miss Gaynor is an impish young colleen who adds a strong dash of roguishness to her famous wifeliness and creates a new character for herself that is regarded as more appealing than ever. Baxter has the part of a wealthy gentleman, who, no matter how hard he tries, cannot help falling head over heels in love with her. The story centers about this romance.

Others in the cast include Walter Connolly, Margaret Lindsay, Mary McCormic, Harvey Stephens and Fiek O'Hara.

"Master of Men" presents Holt and Miss Wray in a gripping drama, with plenty of action, according to theater officials.

The program also includes a chapter of "Fighting With Kit Carson," the story of frontier days, which has been approved by the state P.-T. A.

REX BELL TO PLAY
AS FIGHTING SAILOR

Rex Bell's latest contribution to screen entertainment of the exciting variety is "Rainbow Ranch," which will show at Walker's State theater next Friday and Saturday as the feature film on a diversified program.

The story opens with thrilling scenes of the Pacific battle fleet in action and moves swiftly through fleet prizefights, a fist battle in a dance hall and winds up on the western plains where Bell discards his naval attire for the conventional western outfit, when he battles for water rights on the range.

The entertainment program also includes an Andy Clyde comedy, "Feeling Rosy," a Mickey Mouse comedy, "Mad Doctor," and another chapter of "The Wolf Dog."

All set with pearls (for diamonds are too hard),
Gives out a tinkle for a fairy queen,
A little of rapture for a Chinese bard,
But at the touch of jade my senses reel—
That oily softness with a velvet feel.
—Edna K. Settemyer in Skyline.

Anodyne
Yellow wine in crystal cup,
Dragons carved in jade,
Lotus lilies floating in
Pool of light and shade,
Ivory and sandalwood,
Cassia and Myrrh,
Elephantine of ebony,
Kiss of silken fur,
Peacocks with a thousand eyes
Spreading tails of white
On a floor of black and jade,
Gleaming in the night,
Heavy robes of mandarins,
Stiff with rare brocade,
Rugs of Persia, heads that
Patient hands have made,
Healing as an anodyne . . .
Jade and crystal, yellow wine!

THRILLING POE "STAND UP AND
STORY. "BLACK CHEER!" COMES CAT". AT FOX TO BROADWAY

The tremendous possibilities for weird and creepy scenes offered in Edgar Allan Poe's "Black Cat" were utilized to the utmost in the creation of the screen version of the thriller in "The Black Cat," which opens tonight at the Fox West Coast theater, and runs through Sunday.

Boris Karloff, who appeared as the monster in "Frankenstein," and Bela Lugosi, famous for his portrayal of "Dracula," are combined in "The Black Cat" with the result a smashing production said to be the weirdest creation of filmland.

David Manners and Jacqueline Wells are an unusual romantic team in the picture, their acting affording many chances for provoking tears, laughter and thrills. "Halt a Sinner," a fast-moving romantic comedy featuring Joel McCrea and Sally Blane, will be shown as the second feature on the program.

Selected short subjects, including World News Events, complete the program.

"Stand Up and Cheer!" one of the most elaborate motion picture musicals ever created by Hollywood, will make its appearance at the Broadway theater tomorrow, where it will be shown for four days, according to Manager Lester J. Fountain.

Among the attractions the film offers are hundreds of dazzling girls, a vocal chorus of 500, a thousand players, 335 scenes, 1200 wild animals and five bands of music.

Moulded with this array of players, scenes and music are five spectacular revue numbers said to be the most lavish and pretentious ever undertaken. Each of the rhythmic revues contains a song hit.

The large cast assembled for the elaborate production includes such stellar names as Warner Baxter, Madge Evans, James Dunn, John Boles, Ralph Morgan, Nigel Bruce, Shirley Temple, Arthur Byron and Stepin Fetchit.

Although musical in theme, the screen play contains a timely and topical story of how the "Secretary of Amusement" is ordered by the president to help restore prosperity by reviving the spirits of the people.

The selected short subjects include a Kelly Todd comedy, "Air Fright," a Grantland Rice Sportline, "Animal Antics" and World News Events.

FAMOUS RADIO
STARS IN FILM
MONDAY AT FOX

"Twenty Million Sweethearts," the first National romance of the radio, will be shown for the first time locally at the Fox West Coast theater, it was announced today. Because of the tremendous variety of entertainment and "big names" of radio featured in the picture, Manager Lester J. Fountain has arranged for the picture to show a week at the local theater.

The picture is said to top any of Warner Bros. musical hits in entertainment value, with a breezy story featuring famous radio stars, as well as stars of the screen. Drama, comedy and romance are combined in a well defined plot and catchy songs are featured.

A brand new romantic team comes to the screen in the picture in the persons of Dick Powell and Ginger Rogers, both of whom have been made popular as screen players, as well as singers.

The famous four Mills Brothers' voices will be heard in catchy music while Ted Fio Rito and his band play the accompaniment to one of Powell's tuneful lays, as well as individual music, imitations of famous radio personages by Three Radio Rogues are an added attraction.

Others in the cast include Allen

Among pleasant features of May Day was the surprise party planned for Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Hein in their new home at 918 North Flower street.

Mr. and Mrs. Hein were entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dungan of Fullerton at dinner that evening, so friends planning the surprise had the assurance that their hosts would be at home. Guests followed in the wake of their flowers, and a session of bridge was soon under way. Even prizes were remembered and Mr. and Mrs. Hein had the pleasant experience of making high score at this party planned especially for them, and received the first prize. Consolation went to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Knapp.

Sandwiches and relishes, home-made cookies and coffee were refreshments provided by the guests and served to bring the enjoyable evening to a close.

Card Club Hostess Now On Way to Panama Via Canal

Departing this afternoon from Los Angeles harbor on the United Fruit liner "Antigua," the Misses Frances Potts and Opal Davis of the First National bank clerical staff, were given a merry "bon voyage" by their friends assembled at the harbor to see their departure. Both were anticipating the 17-day voyage and the day to be spent at Panama before the return trip through the canal.

Just preceding the vacation outing, Miss Potts was hostess to her bridge club comprised largely of members engaged in the same line of work, who met socially at monthly intervals for dinner and bridge. Invited to her home, 637 North Ross street, guests found a charming arrangement of flowers to greet them. These were especially attractive as an adjunct to table appointments for the serving of an inviting dinner menu.

Bridge in the after-dinner interval, was especially successful for Mrs. Joseph H. Daniger, Miss Opal Davis and Mrs. Cecelia M. Best, who scored high in the order named, and thus received prizes selected by their hostess. Miss Potts had as her guests, Mrs. Arthur W. Angle, Mrs. William Smith, Miss Opal Davis, Mrs. Joseph H. Daniger, Mrs. Cecelia Best, Mrs. Charles Sauters, Mrs. Ernest Kelsey, Mrs. E. J. Dietrich, Mrs. George Boyd, Miss Gertrude Potts and Mrs. Hugh Heaney.

THESE FOUR CHARMING BRIDES TESTIFY TO PERSUASIVE POWERS OF "DAN CUPID"

MRS. CHARLES STUART HIBBARD

MISS MARJORIE E. DAVIS

MRS. VESTAL L. MORRIS

MRS. PHILIP M. MORE

The marriage of Miss Carmen Doman, daughter of Mrs. Mary Doman of Wintersburg, to Charles Stuart Hibbard of Huntington Park, took place on April 7, in Los Angeles, with the Rev. John A. Leisinger, pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian church, reading the service. The bride was gowned in white, with picture hat and a corsage of white gardenias. She was formerly a teacher in Oceanview school. Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard are established in a pleasant home on Seville avenue, Huntington Beach, where Mr. Hibbard is business manager for a firm in that city.

One of Dan Cupid's happy hunting grounds is the central beach at Laguna Beach, and the latest romance of that favorite spot will culminate in the June wedding of Miss Marjorie E. Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel G. Davis of Los Angeles, and Valmer L. ("Spud") Cochran, Tustin High school athlete and Laguna Beach lifeguard, the son of Mrs. Sadie Cochran, 247 Forest avenue, Laguna Beach. Miss Davis, known as "Marge" to all her intimates, is one of the most popular of the summer residents of Our Village and a member of the youthful athletes of the Red Cross Life-saving corps there. Following their June wedding and a honeymoon trip, the young people plan to live in the art colony.

Among countless Southland brides to take their wedding vows in Yuma, one of the most recent was Miss Minnie Clements McKittick of Whittier, who was wedded on April 21 to Dr. Vestal L. Morris of La Habra, in the home of Yuma friends. Dr. and Mrs. Morris are deferring their honeymoon trip until June, when they will leave for New York City via the Panama Canal. A new automobile will await them in Detroit, and they plan an extensive tour of the East before returning to the coast by way of Chicago and the exposition. They expect to establish a home in the La Habra Heights area.

Riverside is to claim Mrs. Philip More, formerly Miss Maribelle Quinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Quinn, 408 South Garvey street, Santa Ana. The young people were wedded April 28, and have been honeymooning in the northern part of the state before proceeding to the home awaiting them at 3874 Second street, Riverside. Mr. More is with the Bank of America in that city. His lovely young bride left the employment of the Santa Ana store of Sears, Roebuck just prior to the pretty home wedding. She is finding a warm welcome awaiting her in Riverside, which was her former home and where she has countless close friends.

Fortunate holders of high scores in contract and auction bridge which followed the fashion parade, were rewarded with such handsome gifts as amethyst glass goblets, amethyst sets and cut glass for the women, and fine shirts, belts, a desk lamp and similar rewards for men. The lucky prize of a matched set of playing cards, was won by Mrs. Alvin Nowotny.

Games were concluded in time for everyone to join in the Elks 11 o'clock toast pronounced by the exalted ruler, Harry D. Hyde. Mrs. Hyde then presented the officers and in turn made the subject of an appreciation talk by Mr. Hyde, extolling her fine leadership qualities as exemplified in the party series. The parties, designed as a friendly gesture on the part of the lodge, became a financial as well as a social success, and each one has resulted in a gratifying sum for the lodge treasury, with last night's function as the most successful of all.

The evening closed with the supper hour in the basement, where tables were bright with flowers and candles for the service of a generous menu. The hostess table was especially lovely with its formal silver coffee service and matching candlesticks and its wealth of pastel flowers.

Mrs. E. R. Majors and her committee took full charge of this phase of the party. Presiding at the hostess table were Mrs. Harry D. Hyde, wife of the present exalted ruler, and the wives of past exalted rulers, the list comprising Mesdames Horace Head, Barke Roper, Fred Rosa, George Dobson, William Menton, Joe C. Burke, Hugh J. Elks and Their Guests
Share Gala Finale
To Party Series

Success even beyond their anticipations, rewarded hostesses last night at the gala party given in the Elks club as the finale to a season's series of social affairs planned for wives of Elks and their friends. Mrs. A. G. Flagg, social chairman for the series, and her co-workers had planned this concluding function as a compliment to the host lodge, whose members were out in full attendance to share the varied program, staged in the main lodge room of the clubhouse.

Cordial welcome awaited arriving guests from the hostesses, comprised of wives of Elks officers and members. They were Mesdames Earl Abbey, Harold Brown, Robert C. Currie, Donald Jerome, E. R. Majors, V. L. More, Robert Walker, Milburn Harvey, Jesse Elliott, William Garvin, Clare Johnson, Walter Vandermast, Frank Hammett, E. K. Gerhardt, Clyde Walker, D. A. Harwood, J. L. McFadden and Charles Doty.

Augmenting this welcome was the animated scene in the lodge room where W. R. ("Stormy") Gordon and his Elks' orchestra played as guests found places at reserved tables or in the tiers of chairs along the walls, to watch the spring fashion revue.

Mothers Complimented At Legion Auxiliary Program

American Legion auxiliary members paid tribute to their mothers Thursday night with a special program following their usual meeting in Gatty hall.

Mrs. A. C. Eklund presided, introducing the Rev. W. J. Hatter, pastor of Episcopal Church of the Messiah, as speaker of the evening. His talk was especially appropriate to the occasion. Frank Porce, accompanied by Miss Morgan, sang "Mother Macnee" and "When Song Is Sweet." Ethel Brown gave readings, "Earth's Greatest Charm" and "Mother's Party Dress."

Mothers were presented with corsage bouquets which had been made by Mesdames Frances Sullivan and Kay Rasmussen.

Mrs. Elsie Kittleson, chairman of the auxiliary's Girl Scout work, announced the annual Girl Scout Court of Awards will be held Saturday, May 12, at Irvine park. A picnic supper at 6 o'clock will be followed at 7 o'clock by the program. Mrs. Kittleson announced that the Girl Scout troop for which the auxiliary is sponsor will have a cooked food sale Tuesday at the county council meeting to be held in Veterans' hall.

It was announced that Mrs. Rhae Beister, national president of Legion auxiliary, will be honor guest at a luncheon to be held Thursday, May 17, at noon in Los Angeles patriotic hall. The affair will be open to all auxiliary members.

At the close of Thursday night's meeting, refreshments were served by members of Junior American Legion auxiliary.

Following community singing, numbers were given by the Bear Creek Mounties under direction of Keith Jesse. A string quartet directed by Mrs. Eva Friend played selections. Velde Vetter played a piano solo; Miss Nielsen, Mary Jo Deviney and Charles Deviney gave readings; pupils of the school presented a safety play.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL
EAT AND GROW SLIM
Dinner
Fruit cocktail, small.
½ smothered spring chicken.
½ cup curried rice.
3 tablespoons green peas.
Dish of fresh strawberries with 1 teaspoon sugar.
Clear tea or black coffee.
Calory total 550
No doubt you'll be able to find chickens in the market at four for a dollar, or larger ones at three for a dollar. The latter will serve six people of average appetite.

Clean the chickens, dredge with flour and fry in a nice brown in part fat and part butter. Transfer to baking pan, sprinkle generously with minced parsley, chives, a minced clove of garlic, salt and pepper, and 1 cup milk and 1 cup water. Add a pinch of soda to the milk to prevent curdling while cooking. Cover and cook 1½ hours in a slow oven, basting occasionally. Replenish liquid if it cooks away.

Curried rice for this chicken dish is not the highly curried variety you associate with regulation curry. Wash and cook a quantity of rice, drain, rinse, return to the kettle with a piece of butter and a small amount of powdered curry, rubbed smooth in a spoonful of hot water. Heat slowly to ripen flavors.

Sometimes I take those little squab chickens which sell for a dollar and stuff them with this curried rice, tie them in shape, rub with butter and flour and bake slowly in a casserole with butter and cream. And are they good!

Add new potatoes, dressed with parsley butter, to the diet menu, and the family's Sunday dinner is planned. For their dessert, strawberry shortcake will be more in order, I think.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Salad Suggestions
Bowl Salad
Rub a salad bowl with a clove of garlic, put in a thick layer of shredded lettuce, then diced celery, sliced radishes, sliced cucumber, and a few chopped chives. Cover top with sliced tomatoes and pour over a quantity of chilled French dressing.

Pear and Cheese Salad
When pears are ripe, peel and core them, fill cored center with a grated, salty cheese and dress with mayonnaise. Use canned pears when ripe ones are not available.

Macaroni Salad
Cook 2 cups of elbow macaroni, drain, rinse and cool. Dress with tart mayonnaise and add whatever amount of diced cold meat there may be at hand, together with diced pickle and hard cooked egg. A little grated onion helps flavor, as does a dash of garlic salt.

When you are cooking any kind of white fish, slip in an extra slice or two for a salad. Dice fine and add to equal parts of finely grated cabbage and shredded lettuce. Dress with tart mayonnaise and garnish with slices of tomato.

Ann Revolt until Monday.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Jesus Acclaimed As King

Text: Matt. 21:1-46
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 6.
By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

The triumphal entry into Jerusalem has become celebrated in Palm Sunday. Our thoughts have been given to this recently, so that we come to the study of this lesson with the preparation of the Lenten season.

The description of the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem seems to have a unique place in the Gospel story. We find Jesus on different occasions seeking refuge from the opposition and the persecuting spirit of the multitude.

We find him, for the most part, avoiding the thronged public places, giving his greatest teachings to individuals and to small groups as he wanders through the fields, as he sits by the side of the well, or as he reclines in some home where he has been invited to supper.

In many of his public appearances we see him confronted with opposition and denunciation.

A few days after the events described in our lesson, we see him in a very different procession, to the Cross, being spat upon and reviled as he walks under its burden.

How does it come in our lesson, therefore, that we have this contrasted incident? Here, as he rides toward Jerusalem from the Mount of Olives, the people cast their garments in the way and throw palm branches in his path, crying, "Hosanna, blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord."

We can hardly account for the changing scenes, but the contrast is one that has been by no means lacking in other periods of history and in the lives of great leaders and teachers.

History records so many cases where the man who has the plaudits of the throng today is suffering the violence of the mob tomorrow, or the man who is acclaimed as the very savior of his nation today was harried and driven by the mob but a few years earlier.

In our own day we have seen a rather notable example in the rise to power in England, during the war period, of David Lloyd George, although in another war, the war of England against the Boers, Lloyd George was the object of the vengeance of a mob, which threatened even to hang him.

Probably the chief teaching of this lesson arises out of this contrast and its emphasis upon the instability of the mob. The greatest need of the man who would discern true values, and who would always see things aright, is to get that sense of discriminating judgment that is not swayed merely by outward events or by inward passions and emotions.

When we can observe some man who is subject to abuse and contumely, and can find in him some element of goodness that bigotry and prejudice have failed to see, we have put reason above the sway of passion and ignoble influence, and have come into the realm of moral values.

It is not so easy to attain this as would appear on the surface. It is, in fact, the hardest way of life, and it demands life's sternest and supremest discipline. Fortunately we have the discipline and the power of Christ to help us attain to spiritual discernment.

The man who is truly of the Christian spirit brings to life a sort of touchstone, in which the spirit of Christ in others is revealed. He can see in the prophet who is spurned and denounced and persecuted the true man of God, if God indeed be there.

It is easy to throw our palm branches in the way, but it is more difficult in the hour of Calvary to be able to discern the living Christ in the dying victim of human cruelty.

Come to Church

Near Memphis, Egypt—the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea—built by him for his final resting place — and the site at which Jesus was anointed before the crucifixion and where He was later buried.

THERE have been great stories told in all the ages of history but none can equal the miracle of the Resurrection of Our Lord. There have been memorials built for the great in every century, but none can equal in splendor or power the Church in which has been perpetuated His name and His teachings. The lowliest of us can therein find joyousness and salvation.

Jesus Acclaimed As King

Text: Matt. 21:1-46
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 6.
By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

The triumphal entry into Jerusalem has become celebrated in Palm Sunday. Our thoughts have been given to this recently, so that we come to the study of this lesson with the preparation of the Lenten season.

The description of the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem seems to have a unique place in the Gospel story. We find Jesus on different occasions seeking refuge from the opposition and the persecuting spirit of the multitude.

We find him, for the most part, avoiding the thronged public places, giving his greatest teachings to individuals and to small groups as he wanders through the fields, as he sits by the side of the well, or as he reclines in some home where he has been invited to supper.

In many of his public appearances we see him confronted with opposition and denunciation.

A few days after the events described in our lesson, we see him in a very different procession, to the Cross, being spat upon and reviled as he walks under its burden.

How does it come in our lesson, therefore, that we have this contrasted incident? Here, as he rides toward Jerusalem from the Mount of Olives, the people cast their garments in the way and throw palm branches in his path, crying, "Hosanna, blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord."

We can hardly account for the changing scenes, but the contrast is one that has been by no means lacking in other periods of history and in the lives of great leaders and teachers.

History records so many cases where the man who has the plaudits of the throng today is suffering the violence of the mob tomorrow.

row, or the man who is acclaimed as the very savior of his nation today was harried and driven by the mob but a few years earlier. In our own day we have seen a rather notable example in the rise to power in England, during the war period, of David Lloyd George, although in another war, the war of England against the Boers, Lloyd George was the object of the vengeance of a mob, which threatened even to hang him.

Probably the chief teaching of this lesson arises out of this contrast and its emphasis upon the instability of the mob. The greatest need of the man who would discern true values, and who would always see things aright, is to get that sense of discriminating judgment that is not swayed merely by outward events or by inward passions and emotions.

When we can observe some man who is subject to abuse and contumely, and can find in him some element of goodness that bigotry and prejudice have failed to see, we have put reason above the sway of passion and ignoble influence, and have come into the realm of moral values.

It is not so easy to attain this as would appear on the surface. It is, in fact, the hardest way of life, and it demands life's sternest and supremest discipline. Fortunately we have the discipline and the power of Christ to help us attain to spiritual discernment.

The man who is truly of the Christian spirit brings to life a sort of touchstone, in which the spirit of Christ in others is revealed. He can see in the prophet who is spurned and denounced and persecuted the true man of God, if God indeed be there.

It is easy to throw our palm branches in the way, but it is more difficult in the hour of Calvary to be able to discern the living Christ in the dying victim of human cruelty.

SECTION HOLDS PARTY

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, May 5.—Members of the Home Economics section of the San Juan Capistrano Women's club held a tea towel party in the Community church parlors Tuesday afternoon. Come to Church

Near Memphis, Egypt—the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea—built by him for his final resting place — and the site at which Jesus was anointed before the crucifixion and where He was later buried.

THERE have been great stories told in all the ages of history but none can equal the miracle of the Resurrection of Our Lord. There have been memorials built for the great in every century, but none can equal in splendor or power the Church in which has been perpetuated His name and His teachings. The lowliest of us can therein find joyousness and salvation.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The Tynies watched King Cole eat, and shortly he said, "What a treat! There's nothing like better than my bowl of food each day."

"You'll notice that I'm rather fat. I always blame my food for that. Then Dotty said, 'I guess that we will run along and play.' 'Ah, wait a minute,' cried the king. 'You youngsters will do no such thing. You've served me well, and I am going to pay you with a meal.'

"I'll light my pipe, if you don't mind, and then we'll see what we can find. You all look hungry. When you eat, much better you will feel."

"Where are the fiddlers?" Scouty shouted. "Shortly you will see." The fiddlers were brought forth and then the old king smiled real broadly when three of the Tynies played a tune. It sounded very sweet.

Then Duncy cried, "I'll take a chance and try to do a little dance." As he performed, he shouted, "I am sure light on my feet."

Mothers Guests At Class Affair

Out to the pantry they are tore and there they found fine food galore. "Just help yourselves," exclaimed the king. "Then, I've another plan."

"Right now, though, I'll leave you alone. I'll wait for you, back on my throne. I want you all to have enough, so eat all that you can."

My, what a feast the Tynies had. Wee Goldy shortly said, "I'm glad that we came to this place. It is almost like a dream."

Then Duncy shouted, "Hey! Look there! I see something that's really rare." Then from a large icebox he took a platter of ice cream.

Each Tyny ate his share and then they went back to the king again. The fine old man said, "Now I'm calling for my fiddlers three."

"Can any of you youngsters play a tune before you go away?"

LEE AND BETTY LOU TO BE ON KREG MONDAY

Lee and Betty Lou, popularity team, are now heard Monday, Wednesday and Friday on KREG, from 1:45 to 2 p. m.

Lee Mansfield, the "Lee" of the team, is a well-known pianist, comedian and ballad singer. For some years Lee toured the United States in big-time vaudeville, and then joined an Eastern network. He gave up vaudeville work and devoted his time exclusively to radio, but attractive offers from vaudeville agencies brought him back into the theater routine, and during his tour of the United States he met Betty Lou in Los Angeles.

Under Lee's coaching and supervision, Betty Lou developed into a torch-singer, character impersonator and "hoop-boop-a-doop" girl. In 1928, the team, Lee and Betty Lou, went into radio as a career, and were heard in Kansas City, Chicago, Milwaukee and other large cities of the East. However, the lure of the West brought them to Los Angeles. They are making Hollywood their permanent home and are heard in C. B. S. broadcasts from the local station.

LEE AND BETTY LOU TO BE ON KREG MONDAY

Lee and Betty Lou, popularity team, are now heard Monday, Wednesday and Friday on KREG, from 1:45 to 3 p. m.

Lee Mansfield, the "Lee" of the team, is a well-known pianist, comedian and ballad singer. For some years Lee toured the United States in big-time vaudeville, and then joined an Eastern network. He gave up vaudeville work and devoted his time exclusively to radio, but his aggressive efforts brought him back into the theater routine, and during his tour of the United States he met Betty Lou in Los Angeles.

Under Lee's coaching and supervision, Betty Lou developed into a torch-singer, character impersonator and "hoop-bop-a-doo" girl. In 1935, the team, Lee and Betty Lou, went into radio as a career, and were heard in Kansas City, Chicago, Milwaukee and other large cities of the East. However, the lure of the West brought them to Los Angeles. They are making Hollywood their permanent home and are heard in C. B. S. broadcasts from the local station.

"NO SELFISH MOTIVE TOUCHED HIS PUBLIC LIFE"

A monument was dedicated on May 3rd to William Jennings Bryan. This monument is on the banks of the Potomac. William Jennings Bryan undoubtedly did more to inject moral impulse into political life than any individual who became prominent in all the years of our national councils. In the blazing lime-light of public action, he is the one man who was unquestionably dominated by his belief in what was the "right thing" to do, rather than what was the politic thing to do at the moment.

His interest was in the masses, and in a very marvelous manner his voice expressed their needs, their convictions and the way out, as he saw it. We never voted for him. But we admired him for his courage, respected him for his straight-forwardness, and loved him for his character. President Roosevelt very well said of him at the dedication: "He chose his path not to win acclaim, but rather because that path appeared clear to him from his innermost beliefs." He further said: "No selfish motive touched his public life. He held important office only as a sacred trust of honor from his country. And when he sought a mandate from his fellow citizens, the soul of his inspiration was the furtherance of their interest, not his own, not of a group, but of all."

The president emphasized his sincerity and said, "It was that sincerity which brought to him the millions of devoted followers. It was that sincerity which served him so well in his long fight against sham and privilege and wrong. It was that sincerity which made him a force for good in his own generation and has kept alive many of the ancient faiths on which we are building today." And then he quoted Bryan himself: "I respect the aristocracy of learning. I deplore the plutocracy of wealth, but I thank God for the democracy of the heart."

William Jennings Bryan was declared by Mr. Daniels, on this occasion, to be the leading actor in a third of a century of American history. We recall how, the next day after his defeat in 1896, an opposition paper declared that he was a "freak"; that he would go back to Lincoln, Nebraska, and never be heard of again. He did go back to Lincoln, Nebraska, and began the publication of a weekly paper, and issued a book on "The First Battle." We doubt seriously if there were three successive issues of that paper in the following 25 years that didn't mention Bryan from one to 50 times.

He was the kind of a man whom you would expect columnists in some newspapers to refer to slightly. For example, Harry Carr, writing in the Los Angeles Times, on the day after the dedication of this monument, referred to him as a "ridiculous town orator from Lincoln." Those who have read Bryan's address on "The Prince of Peace," "The Price of a Soul," and "The Ideal Republic" and remember the wonderful work that he did with the treaties looking toward peace with South America, his service for the initiative and referendum, the election of United States senators by direct vote, the direct primary and nearly all of the laws that have been enacted that have taken power from the few and turned it over to the many, can understand how in these years after his death, those who believe in the power of the few over the many would speak of him in just this manner.

However, in the same paragraph, there was an attempt to discount Woodrow Wilson as though he were an ignorant man, and especially on international affairs. If the writer of that column would read more of the essays of Woodrow Wilson, along the lines of political science, he would be a much better guide for the people.

While unfortunately in the latter part of Mr. Bryan's life he took up issues of a religious type, theological in character, to which he had not given his attention in younger days, the contribution that he has made to democracy in America is such that those of us who still have faith in the rights of the common people, are truly grateful.

William Philip Simms calls Chinese Turkestan "the country that God forgot." Maybe that's where the forgotten man will be found.

NEW AIR MAIL CONTRACTS SAVE MILLIONS FOR TREASURY

There has been a great deal of opposition from various sources to the president's cancellation of the air mail contracts. There has been impressed constantly upon the people from these sources that there was no ground for such cancellation, whereas every accusation that was made was abundantly vindicated by the evidence that was brought forth in the committee.

Now new contracts are being let. It was charged that millions of money was being taken from the treasury of the United States and put into the coffers of these air mail lines that was unnecessary, because it was "way above actual costs." With the new contracts, these facts are so clear that "he who runs may read."

In the United Air Lines from Newark to San Francisco, the reduction in the cost was from 42.65 cents to 38 cents, a saving of 10 per cent.

In the costs in the line from Newark to Los Angeles, the present rate lacks only two cents per mile of being but half of the contract that was formerly had.

In the Eastern Airlines from Newark to New Orleans, the former rate was more than 200 per cent of the present contract.

The same is true of the Eastern Airline from Chicago to Jacksonville. At present it is 19 cents a mile, while the contract that was formerly had was 45 cents. The same is true of the contract from Amarillo to Brownsville, reduced from 45 cents a mile to 19.75 cents.

And so it goes, one after another. There is a saving of nearly 50 per cent of the cost to the government. When it is summed up, it will be found in that cancellation alone, the grasping hand of greed was forced to relinquish, into the treasury of the people of this country, from 30 to 40 million dollars.

Of course they yell. There is no class of people who yell louder than those who have gotten their hands into the public treasury, when they are forced to let go. There is none who fight harder against orders to disgorge. It is a great relief to the taxpayers and to all interested in justice, and to those who believe that it ought to be made just as wrong for big corporations to steal money from the treasury of the government, as it is to steal from a bank, to have a chief executive who adheres to a policy of justice and righteousness in such lines, regardless of the hue and cry.

A new streamline train made a record speed of 104 miles an hour, in a recent test run. But it will still arrive late, we bet.

THE OXFORD GROUP GOES SOCIALLY MINDED

Some weeks ago we had occasion to comment on a motto printed on a program of a house party of the Oxford group, whose growing influence in the religious work is beginning to attract international attention. The motto ran: "Changed lives are the raw materials of the new social order." The Oxford movement has not developed social-mindedness hitherto. It was wrapped up too much in an individualistic religious life unrelated to the larger moral and ethical needs of the world.

But a change seems to have come. In the New York town hall, the group is carrying on group discussions of the pressing social problems of the present age. This is a very good sign. It will mean much for the progress of social religion, if a group, as thoroughly dedicated to religious ideals as the Oxford group is, will dedicate itself to what a theologian has called a "full gospel." A religion of personal habits which thins out into an emotional luxury does not fit this stormy and inter-related world of ours.

It is a great satisfaction to those who have grown to admire the sincerity and the devotion of these groups in their public meetings to see them turning in to help in the great task of social redemption as well as individualistic salvation.

Friends of Libraries

New York Times

The gifts which made possible the founding of most of our colleges and universities included books. The university at Cambridge got its patronymic from John Harvard, an immigrant Puritan minister, who, dying in Cambridge, bequeathed in addition to 780 pounds—half of his estate—260 books to this "wilderness seminary." The university in New Haven remembers in its name Elihu Yale, who "besides books" left to the school goods that were sold for somewhat more than 300 pounds. One of the early presidents of Princeton, a hundred years before Carlyle defined the true university as a collection of books, said that "a large and well-sorted collection of books" was the most proper and valuable fund with which a college can be endowed.

Libraries are never finished. They must include not only the books that never die, but those that rather fresh wisdom out of the present and look further into the future. So it is that in many colleges and universities there are being organized groups of graduates calling themselves "Friends of the Library," each devoted to supplying, in part at least, the continuing need of a particular institution. Princeton University has been particularly fortunate in the activity of its Library Friends, who have been not only diligent in finding out what books are most needed but in devising ways to acquaint the public with these specific wants. Galsworthy, the Pulitzer Prize winners, the undergraduates in clever dramatic apper and in song, have all assisted in making new friends for this particular library.

Books are not all. As President Dodds said in his address to the Princeton graduates in New York, the library should be a place where men "may read, discuss, think and when they are ready, write." There will be room for books and also for students and faculty in close conjunction—a "warm place where the student may make friends with books and teachers." In such places democracy will have its encouragement to move out into new frontiers of thought. Libraries thus become the centers of the intellectual life of institutions and are themselves the best promise of higher educated life in America, where a century ago Sydney Smith was asking: "Who ever reads an American book?"

It has been suggested that such a library should be built and equipped at Princeton in memory of Woodrow Wilson, whose preceptorial system was designed to make reading men. And the proposal has been made that the graduates of the University of Virginia, founded by Thomas Jefferson, should become friends to such a library home in memory of its first president, Edwin A. Alderman. These are but specific illustrations of what "Friends of the Library" may be doing for every college and university across the continent.

Hatpins Again?

Kansas City Star

The news concerning the radical changes in millinery styles planned for the coming Summer season is very interesting, from the economic as well as the scenic standpoint. Every business man knows that radical steps in the evolution of an industry, such as streamlining in motors and mushrooming in women's hats, means a rapid effort in retail trade to keep up with the times. Thus when big wide hats and sailors are announced for Summer, it means quick work for everybody, from employers of labor within the trade to customers eager to keep pace with the styles. The quick change to big hat styles for Summer may mean that millinery is turning the corner into Prosperity street.

But what the menfolk want to know hasn't yet been answered. The menfolk know from experience that big hats and high winds present their own peculiar problems, and although it is easy to keep under a small brimless hat in a stiff wind, it is almost impossible if the hat has a wide brim. Does the change to big hats this Summer mean the return of hatpins?

TWO REPORTERS

Give a hand to old Homer and Plutarch:

With lyre and with stylus they told

Of the lads who amassed

Deathless fame in the past—

I refer to two writers of old.

What today would we know of Rome's prowess

Or the glory that used to be Troy's

If they hadn't been sung

When the planet was young

By these early-day newspaper boys.

They possibly stretched things a trifle.

Their yarns may have been inexact:

It has often been found

That their stuff was unsound

And widely departed from fact.

But, if they had never existed

To sing about fighting and fame

Very little we'd know

Of the time long ago

When war was the favorite game.

Troy doesn't exist any longer.

And Greece of all glory is bare;

Today she is known

From zone unto zone

By the fact that Sam Insull was there.

But because of two gifted reporters,

Who knew their publicity stuff,

While the world spins around

These towns will be found

To have far more than glory enough.

IT CAN'T BE DONE

Naturally, it would be just as rude to be impolite to an Eskimo lady as to a real one, ma said, and I said, Well have fishes and worms got feelings?

Everything that lives and breathes has feelings, ma said, and I said, Even plants?

Well, hardly plants, ma said, and I said, G, I'm glad of that, that's a lucky thing, gosh that's a big relief.

Why, for goodness sakes? ma said, and I said, Why because do you know that funny crooked looking plant in the living room? Well I wanted to find out if it was as strong as it looks just for a experiment, so I balanced ash trays and books and things on one of the sticking out parts and it finally broke off, so it's a lucky thing it didn't have any feelings, ain't it, ma? The First Annual Orange County Automobile, Tractor, Truck and Accessory show opened at Anaheim to continue up to and including May 8, under auspices of the Orange County Auto Trades Association. The committee arranging for the event was composed of A. H. Sifton, Harry D. Riley, C. H. McCandless, with Walter Bidlack as manager.

With only a few close relatives in attendance, the marriage of Miss Ruby Wright and Dr. J. J. Jacobs of Santa Ana, occurred in Riverside at the First M. E. parsonage. For several weeks preceding the wedding the bride had been feted at showers and parties of every description.

The Santa Ana Canyon Oil Company was on the verge of uncovering what was believed to be one of the best oil fields in the county, and determining that the oil reservoirs extended across the Santa Ana river and south of what had formerly been believed to be a dead line. The test well near Sulphur Slide grade had reached the depth of 8122 feet.

Cinco de Mayo was observed by local Mexicans with a Spanish program at Elks' hall under direction of the Pro Patria club. A short play, Spanish songs and music were followed by dancing at the Armory.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

LORD BACON AND THE NEW DEAL

The New Deal is not as new as its name. As far as its objectives are concerned, clear minds had formulated in outline some centuries ago.

For the benefit of those Americans who see red at every suggestion of governmental effort to bring order and justice into our common enterprise, I want today to present a statement written by Lord Bacon in 1600.

"The first remedy or prevention," said Lord Bacon, "is to remove, by all means possible, that material cause of sedition whereof we speak, which is, want and poverty in the state. To which purpose serveth:

"The opening and well-balancing of trade.

"The cherishing of manufactures.

"The banishing of idleness.

"The repressing of waste and excess by sumptuary laws.

"The improvement and husbanding of the soil.

"The regulating of prices of things vendible.

"The moderating of taxes and tributes.

"Above all things, good policy is to be used, that the treasures and monies in a state be not gathered into a few hands, for otherwise, a state may have a great stock and yet starve; and money is like much, not good except to be spread."

It is basically not a new situation in which we find ourselves. Donald Richberg is not the first man to talk about a wider spread of the national income as a safety measure. Bacon beat him to it 334 years ago, as the above statement shows. Labor was battling about hours of labor, wages and scabs back in ancient Rome.

The new deal we need is simply the application of the old wisdom to the new conditions that science and technology have brought out. Copyright, 1934, McClure Newspaper Syn.

Our Children

ANOTHER LAW

I get many letters every day. Each one that comes in is a message from somebody who feels strongly on some one point or other. Life has pressed hard and bruised the spirit of some and the letter is a protest. Usually along with the protest is a suggestion for a remedy. Each suffering human being cries out for relief, for help, for rescue from some pressing difficulty or anxiety. The law seems to offer many of us hope of relief. There ought to be a law.

Maybe there ought. I don't know. But I would be reluctant to make laws either for myself or for other people. What I have seen of the results of such laws does not make me eager to make more of the same kind. It is an old, old story concerning the instincts of human nature. If the law makes violence those deep rooted instincts of personal choice, personal thought and conviction, it won't be obeyed. As I have experienced it the law follows public opinion and does not lead it. We don't need half the laws we have. We need education to illumine the minds of many citizens that they may see the meaning of some we have now on the books.

Many protests have come in during the past year about the movies and the advertisers and the show managers. "The thing is immoral. It threatens the character of our children. The censorship should be tightened. There ought to be a law forbidding the exhibition and sale of such work."

I agree readily that some of the offerings are objectionable in the extreme. But there are laws enough to deal with them now. Enforce them before we make any more. And let's be very, very watchful about this censorship. Censors once started might not know when to stop. The freedom of the human soul is an intangible quality that cannot be defined in words much less limited by statute. Censorship attempts to do just that and that must not happen in this country.

Why should we have censors of the press or the stage? To protect the morals of the children? Think a bit. We grew up in a time of looser morality than this one. You think there were no daring shows, no lurid night life, no shady literature? Of course there was plenty of it in every age since the creation. You didn't notice it when you were a child because childhood is mercifully protected against blighting experiences. In its ignorance of the meaning or even the implications of evil it goes on its serene way. God prepares the back for the burden is true here as elsewhere. Time brings experience and with it comes judgment. Our children are safer than we were and our fathers guarded the freedom of thought, freedom of speech, and freedom of the press. To them, and to us, this is an idea worth fighting for and dying for.

When we shout, Censor, we are not thinking with all the cell batteries in working order.

No. We don't want censorship. We want education. We want enlightenment of public opinion. We want an aroused spirit in the people that will enforce the laws we have and guard the rights we have. Remember you can't censor the other fellow and remain free spoken yourself. Freedom of opinion, of expression, of human living is a common right and must be guarded as such.

Here and There

More than 53 per cent of urban families in the United States were housed in apartments in 1928.

Improperly prepared and addressed mail causes a loss to the Post Office Department and users of the mails of $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 annually.

The average speed at which air mail and express travels along the airways of the United States is about 110 miles an hour.

Bromine occurs in sea water to the extent of 60 to 70 parts per million.

Germany, the United States, the United Kingdom and France together exported $800,000,000 worth of chemicals and allied products in 1928.

The Census Bureau reports that we now number 125,693,000 inhabitants in the United States, or 2,917,954 more than shown in the 1930 count.

There are 700 to 800 graves in the dog and cat cemetery at Columbus, O.; it was founded 10 years ago.

In the Nevada desert, near Las Vegas, alfalfa was found to grow 42 inches in 26 days.

The largest gold coin in the world is the Japanese oban, which is five inches in diameter and weighs four ounces.

In spite of their awkwardness, giraffes can gallop at a speed of 30 miles an hour.

A cougar can spring 40 feet on level ground.

Dunce caps were named after a learned Scotch clergyman, Duns Scotus, who lived in the 13th century.

Temperatures on Mars at night are as low as 11 degrees below zero.

Millions of bees invaded a building where honey was stored in Fremantle, Australia; one case was leaking and attracted the swarm, which the fire department repelled by turning poison gas on it.

"NO SELFISH MOTIVE TOUCHED HIS PUBLIC LIFE"

A monument was dedicated on May 3rd to William Jennings Bryan. This monument is on the banks of the Potomac. William Jennings Bryan undoubtedly did more to inject moral impulse into political life than any individual who became prominent in all the years of our national councils. In the blazing lime-light of public action, he is the one man who was unquestionably dominated by his belief in what was the "right thing" to do, rather than what was the politic thing to do at the moment.

His interest was in the masses, and in a very marvelous manner his voice expressed their needs, their convictions and the way out, as he saw it. We never voted for him. But we admired him for his courage, respected him for his straight-forwardness, and loved him for his character. President Roosevelt very well said of him at the dedication: "He chose his path not to win acclaim, but rather because that path appeared clear to him from his innermost beliefs." He further said: "No selfish motive touched his public life. He held important office only as a sacred trust of honor from his country. And when he sought a mandate from his fellow citizens, the soul of his inspiration was the furtherance of their interest, not his own, not of a group, but of all."

The president emphasized his sincerity and said, "It was that sincerity which brought to him the millions of devoted followers. It was that sincerity which served him so well in his long fight against sham and privilege and wrong. It was that sincerity which made him a force for good in his own generation and has kept alive many of the ancient faiths on which we are building today." And then he quoted Bryan himself: "I respect the aristocracy of learning. I deplore the plutocracy of wealth, but I thank God for the democracy of the heart."

William Jennings Bryan was declared by Mr. Daniels, on this occasion, to be the leading actor in a third of a century of American history. We recall how, the next day after his defeat in 1896, an opposition paper declared that he was a "freak"; that he would go back to Lincoln, Nebraska, and never be heard of again. He did go back to Lincoln, Nebraska, and began the publication of a weekly paper, and issued a book on "The First Battle." We doubt seriously if there were three successive issues of that paper in the following 25 years that didn't mention Bryan from one to 50 times.

He was the kind of a man whom you would expect columnists in some newspapers to refer to slightly. For example, Harry Carr, writing in the Los Angeles Times, on the day after the dedication of this monument, referred to him as a "ridiculous town orator from Lincoln." Those who have read Bryan's address on "The Prince of Peace," "The Price of a Soul," and "The Ideal Republic" and remember the wonderful work that he did with the treaties looking toward peace with South America, his service for the initiative and referendum, the election of United States senators by direct vote, the direct primary and nearly all of the laws that have been enacted that have taken power from the few and turned it over to the many, can understand how in these years after his death, those who believe in the power of the few over the many would speak of him in just this manner.

However, in the same paragraph, there was an attempt to discount Woodrow Wilson as though he were an ignorant man, and especially on international affairs. If the writer of that column would read more of the essays of Woodrow Wilson, along the lines of political science, he would be a much better guide for the people.

While unfortunately in the latter part of Mr. Bryan's life he took up issues of a religious type, theological in character, to which he had not given his attention in younger days, the contribution that he has made to democracy in America is such that those of us who still have faith in the rights of the common people, are truly grateful.

William Philip Simms calls Chinese Turkestan "the country that God forgot." Maybe that's where the forgotten man will be found.

NEW AIR MAIL CONTRACTS SAVE MILLIONS FOR TREASURY

There has been a great deal of opposition from various sources to the president's cancellation of the air mail contracts. There has been impressed constantly upon the people from these sources that there was no ground for such cancellation, whereas every accusation that was made was abundantly vindicated by the evidence that was brought forth in the committee.

Now new contracts are being let. It was charged that millions of money was being taken from the treasury of the United States and put into the coffers of these air mail lines that was unnecessary, because it was "way above actual costs." With the new contracts, these facts are so clear that "he who runs may read."

In the United Air Lines from Newark to San Francisco, the reduction in the cost was from 42.65 cents to 38 cents, a saving of 10 per cent.

In the costs in the line from Newark to Los Angeles, the present rate lacks only two cents per mile of being but half of the contract that was formerly had.

In the Eastern Airlines from Newark to New Orleans, the former rate was more than 200 per cent of the present contract.

The same is true of the Eastern Airline from Chicago to Jacksonville. At present it is 19 cents a mile, while the contract that was formerly had was 45 cents. The same is true of the contract from Amarillo to Brownsville, reduced from 45 cents a mile to 19.75 cents.

And so it goes, one after another. There is a saving of nearly 50 per cent of the cost to the government. When it is summed up, it will be found in that cancellation alone, the grasping hand of greed was forced to relinquish, into the treasury of the people of this country, from 30 to 40 million dollars.

Of course they yell. There is no class of people who yell louder than those who have gotten their hands into the public treasury, when they are forced to let go. There is none who fight harder against orders to disgorge. It is a great relief to the taxpayers and to all interested in justice, and to those who believe that it ought to be made just as wrong for big corporations to steal money from the treasury of the government, as it is to steal from a bank, to have a chief executive who adheres to a policy of justice and righteousness in such lines, regardless of the hue and cry.

A new streamline train made a record speed of 104 miles an hour, in a recent test run. But it will still arrive late, we bet.

THE OXFORD GROUP GOES SOCIALLY MINDED

Some weeks ago we had occasion to comment on a motto printed on a program of a house party of the Oxford group, whose growing influence in the religious work is beginning to attract international attention. The motto ran: "Changed lives are the raw materials of the new social order." The Oxford movement has not developed social-mindedness hitherto. It was wrapped up too much in an individualistic religious life unrelated to the larger moral and ethical needs of the world.

But a change seems to have come. In the New York town hall, the group is carrying on group discussions of the pressing social problems of the present age. This is a very good sign. It will mean much for the progress of social religion, if a group, as thoroughly dedicated to religious ideals as the Oxford group is, will dedicate itself to what a theologian has called a "full gospel." A religion of personal habits which thus into an emotional luxury does not fit this stormy and inter-related world of ours.

It is a great satisfaction to those who have grown to admire the sincerity and the devotion of these groups in their public meetings to see them turning in to help in the great task of social redemption as well as individualistic salvation.

Friends of Libraries

The gifts which made possible the founding of most of our colleges and universities included books. The university at Cambridge got its patronymic from John Harvard, an immigrant Puritan minister, who, dying in Cambridge, bequeathed in addition to 780 pounds—half of his estate—260 books to this "wilderness seminary." The university in New Haven remembers in its name Elihu Yale, who "besides books" left to the school goods that were sold for somewhat more than 300 pounds. One of the early presidents of Princeton, a hundred years before Carlyle defined the true university as a collection of books, said that "a large and well-sorted collection of books" was the most proper and valuable fund with which a college can be endowed.

Libraries are never finished. They must include not only the books that never die, but those that gather fresh wisdom out of the present and look further into the future. So it is that in many colleges and universities there are being organized groups of graduates calling themselves "Friends of the Library," each devoted to supplying, in part at least, the continuing need of a particular institution. Princeton University has been particularly fortunate in the activity of its Library Friends, who have been not only diligent in finding out what books are most needed but in devising ways to acquire the public with these specific wants. Galsworthy, the Pulitzer Prize winners, the undergraduates in clever dramatic appeal and in song, have all assisted in making new friends for this particular library.

Books are not all. As President Dodds said in his address to the Princeton graduates in New York, the library should be a place where men "may read, discuss, think and when they are ready, write." There will be room for books and also for students and faculty in close conjunction—a "warm place where the student may make friends with books and teachers." In such places democracy will have its encouragement to move out into new frontiers of thought. Libraries thus become the centers of the intellectual life of institutions and are themselves the best promise of higher educated life in America, where a century ago Sydney Smith was asking: "Who ever reads an American book?"

It has been suggested that such a library should be built and equipped at Princeton in memory of Woodrow Wilson, whose preceptorial system was designed to make reading men. And the proposal has been made that the graduates of the University of Virginia, founded by Thomas Jefferson, should become friends to such a library home in memory of its first president, Edwin A. Alderman. These are but specific illustrations of what "Friends of the Library" may be doing for every college and university across the continent.

Hatpins Again?

The news concerning the radical changes in millinery styles planned for the coming Summer season is very interesting, from the economic as well as the scenic standpoint. Every business man knows that radical steps in the evolution of an industry, such as streamlining in motors and mushrooming in women's hats, means a rapid effort in retail trade to keep up with the times. Thus when big wide hats and sailors are announced for Summer, it means quick work for everybody, from employers of labor within the trade to customers eager to keep pace with the styles. The quick change to big hat styles for Summer may mean that millinery is turning the corner into Prosperity street.

But what the menfolk want to know hasn't yet been answered. The menfolk know from experience that big hats and high winds present their own peculiar problems, and although it is easy to keep under a small brimless hat in a stiff wind, it is almost impossible if the hat has a wide brim. Does the change to big hats this Summer mean the return of hatpins?

More Truth Than Poetry

TWO REPORTERS

Give a hand to old Homer and Plutarch;
With lyre and with stylus they told
Of the lads who amassed
Deathless fame in the past—
I refer to two writers of old.
What today would we know of Rome's prowess
Or the glory that used to be Troy's?
If they hadn't been young
When the planet was young
By these early-day newspaper boys.

They possibly stretched things a trifle.
Their yarns may have been inexact.
It has often been found
That their stuff was unsound
And widely departed from fact.
But, if they had never existed
To sing about fighting and fame
Very little we'd know
Of the time long ago
When war was the favorite game.

Troy doesn't exist any longer,
And Greece of old glory is bare;
Today she is known
From zone unto zone
By the fact that Sam Insull was there.
But because of two gifted reporters,
Who knew their publicity stuff,
While the world spins around
These towns will be found
To have far more than glory enough.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

LORD BACON AND THE NEW DEAL

The New Deal is not as new as its name. As far as its objectives are concerned, clear minds had it formulated in outline some centuries ago.

For the benefit of those Americans who see red at every suggestion of governmental effort to bring order and justice into our common enterprise, I want today to present a statement written by Lord Bacon in 1600.

"The first remedy or prevention," said Lord Bacon, "is to remove, by all means possible, that material cause of sedition whereof we speak, which is, want and poverty in the state. To which purpose serveth:

"The opening and well-balancing of trade.

"The cherishing of manufactures.

"The banishing of idleness.

"The repressing of waste and excess by sumptuary laws.

"The improvement and husbanding of the soil.

"The regulating of prices of things vendible.

"The moderating of taxes and tributes.

"Above all things, good policy is to be used, that the treasures and monies in a state be not gathered into a few hands, for otherwise, a state may have a great stock and yet starve; and money is like much, not good except to be spread."

It is basically not a new situation in which we find ourselves. Donald Richberg is not the first man to talk about a wider spread of the national income as a safety measure. Bacon beat him to it 334 years ago, as the above statement shows. Labor was battling about hours of labor, wages and scabs back in ancient Rome.

The new deal we need is simply the application of the old wisdom to the new conditions that science and technology have brought out. Copyright, 1934, McClure Newspaper Syn.

ANOTHER LAW

I get many letters every day. Each one that comes in is a message from somebody who feels strongly on some one point or other. Life has pressed hard and bruised the spirit of some father or mother or teacher and the letter is a protest. Usually along with the protest is a suggestion for a remedy. Each suffering human being cries out for relief, for help, for rescue from some pressing difficulty or anxiety. The law seems to offer many of us hope of relief. There ought to be a law.

Maybe there ought. I don't know. But I would be reluctant to make laws either for myself or for other people. What I have seen of the results of such laws does not make me eager to make more of the same kind. It is an old, old story concerning the instincts of human nature. If the law one makes violates those deep rooted instincts of personal choice, personal thought and conviction, it won't be obeyed. As I have experienced it, the law follows public opinion and does not lead it. We don't need half the laws we have. We need education to illumine the minds of many citizens that they may see the meaning of some we have now on the books.

Many protests have come in during the past year about the movies and the advertisers and the show managers. "The thing is immoral. It threatens the character of our children. The censorship should be tightened. There ought to be a law forbidding the exhibition and sale of such work."

I agree readily that some of the offerings are objectionable in the extreme. But there are laws enough to deal with them now. Enforce them before we make any more. And let's be very, very watchful about this censorship. Censors once started might not know when to stop. The freedom of the human soul is an intangible quality that cannot be defined in words much less limited by statute. Censorship attempts to do just that and that must not happen in this country.

Why should we have censors of the press or the stage? To protect the morals of the children? Think a bit. We grew up in a time of looser morality than this one. You think there were no daring shows, no lurid night life, no shady literature? Of course there was plenty of it in every age since the creation. You didn't notice it when you were a child because childhood is mercifully protected against blighting experiences. In its ignorance of the meaning or even the implications of evil it goes on its serene way. God prepares the back for the burden is true here as elsewhere. Time brings experience and with it comes judgment. Our children are safer than we were and our fathers guarded the freedom of thought, freedom of speech, and freedom of the press. To them, and to us, this is an idea worth fighting for and dying for.

When we shout, Censor, we are not thinking with all the cell batteries in working order.

No. We don't want censorship. We want education. We want enlightenment of public opinion. We want an aroused spirit in the people that will enforce the laws we have and guard the rights we have. Remember you can't censor the other fellow and remain free spoken yourself. Freedom of opinion, of expression, of human living is a common right and must be guarded as such.

In the Long Ago

From the Register Files
14 Years Ago Today

MAY 5, 1920

The First Annual Orange County Automobile, Tractor, Truck and Accessory show opened at Anaheim to continue up to and including May 8, under auspices of the Orange County Auto Trades Association. The committee arranging for the event was composed of A. H. Stilton, Harry D. Riley, C. H. McCauland, with Walter Biddick as manager.

With only a few close relatives in attendance, the marriage of Miss Ruby Wright and Dr. J. J. Jacobs of Santa Ana, occurred in Riverside at the First M. E. parsonage. For several weeks preceding the wedding the bride had been feted at showers and parties of every description.

The Santa Ana Canyon Oil Company was on the verge of uncovering what was believed to be one of the best oil fields in the county, and determining that the oil reservoirs extended across the Santa Ana river and south of what had formerly been believed to be a dead line. The test well near Sulphur Slide grade had reached the depth of 3122 feet.

Cinco de Mayo was observed by local Mexicans with a Spanish program at Elks' hall under direction of the Pro Patria club. A short play, Spanish songs and music were followed by dancing at the Armory.
